The Joseph B. Whitehead Foundation yesterday announced gifts totaling $120,000 to Atlanta charity and educational organizations, the first made from a fund set up last year by the late soft drink millionaire.

Conkey P. Whitehead, chairman of the board of trustees of the foundation, said the funds would be distributed at once and that the board would meet semi-annually in the future to announce its benefactions. The meeting was held in the foundation offices in the Norris building.

Of the total, $50,000 is to be divided among 10 agencies of the Community Chest, the division to be based on the amounts the organizations receive annually from the Chest. The rest goes to other institutions and agencies.

The 10 Chest agencies sharing in the gifts are the Atlanta Child's Home, Carrie Steele Logan Home, Child Welfare Association, Florence Crittenden Home, Gate City Kindergarten and Day Nursery Association, Hillside Cottages, Home for Old Women, Rhodes Home for Incurables, Atlanta Tuberculosis Association and Sheltering Arms.

Samuel L. Jones, secretary and managing director of the foundation, will determine the exact amounts to be divided among the Chest agencies, Mr. Whitehead said.

In addition the trustees announced the following grants:

- $15,000 to the Georgia Baptist Orphanage at Hapeville.
- $10,000 to the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children.
- $10,000 to the Georgia Baptist hospital.
- $10,000 to Emory hospital.
- $5,000 to the Henrietta Eggleston Memorial hospital.
- $2,000 to the Particular Council, St. Vincent de Paul Society of Atlanta.
- $2,000 to the Southern Christian home.
- $1,000 to the Hebrew Orphans' Home.
- $15,000 to the Methodist Children's Home, Decatur.

Of the $15,000 given the Methodist Children's Home, $5,000 is for general charitable and educational purposes while $10,000 is to start erection of a school to be designated the Joseph B. Whitehead Memorial school. The trustees pledged the foundation to give $10,000 additional to the school in 1939.

The gifts to the Chest agencies were made with the provision that

As Chief Justice Reid Received Congratulations

Chief Justice Charles S. Reid, of the state supreme court, is shown as he appeared yesterday propped up in bed at the Atlanta Biltmore receiving congratulations of his friends. He is convalescing from a recent illness. The new chief justice will take his oath of office tomorrow.

CONYERS 'TURNER' TWO OTHER MEN

Pair of Escapes Nabbed Near Winder After Abandoning Automobile.

It wasn't Forrest Turner who was "positively seen" in Conyers Tuesday afternoon, a short time before the car of a traveling salesman was reported stolen. It was two other fellows.

This fact was definitely disclosed last night when Sheriff J. T. Williams, at Winder, said the two other men, both escapes from the prison, were captured in the woods about three miles from Winder and the traveling salesman's car recovered.

The pair was listed as Louis Voltz, 22, serving a 25-year term, who escaped from the Claxton camp Sunday, and Leon Fallen, 23, an escapee from an undisclosed jail.

Sheriff Williams said the pair, driving the car of E. Cooper, of Columbia, S. C., the salesman, was discovered four miles south-east of Winder by himself and Patrolmen McNeal and Welch late Wednesday. The escapes abandoned the car and ran into the woods.

There, the officers lost them until late yesterday afternoon, when they were captured a mile nearer Winder. The license tags of Cooper's car, flashed following the vehicle's theft and the report that Turner, notorious escapee, was in Conyers that afternoon, led to the pursuit.

Reid Accepts Court Post, To Be Sworn in Tomorrow

Up in Blairsville, Mother of Brilliant Georgia Attorney Prepares to Pack Old and Tattered Family Bible for Use in Ceremonies.

By L. A. FARRELL.
With his hand on the tattered family Bible from which he studied as a poor boy far back in the mountains of north Georgia, Charles S. Reid, who made it the hard way, tomorrow will be sworn in as the new chief justice of the state supreme court. Up in Blairsville last night the new chief justice's mother, Mrs. N. Y. Reid, bustled herself preparing for the trip to Atlanta. She's going to bring the Bible and she just couldn't make it today—baking day. The supreme court would just have to wait.

Governor Rivers announced Reid's acceptance of the post early yesterday afternoon. The new chief justice Wednesday told the Governor he wouldn't take it, only to change his mind late Wednesday night after conferring with friends. Governor Rivers visited Reid early yesterday morning at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel, and when he left to go to the executive mansion he had his former Young Harris classmate's acceptance.

Reid will succeed the late Chief Justice Richard B. Russell Sr., who died two weeks ago. In accepting he made it clear that his acceptance is not temporary. He has abandoned a brilliant legal career for a career on the bench. The appointment is only for the unexpired term of Chief Justice Russell which ends January 1, 1941, but Reid made it known that he would stay.

Navy Will Name Speedy Cruiser, To Be Built Next Year, for Atlanta

The Navy Department announced yesterday in Washington that one of four new cruisers to be built next year would be named "Atlanta" in honor of this city.

The vessel probably will be one of two new 6,000-ton cruisers on which the Navy has asked for bids on February 15. The other two are to be contracted for a little later. The four names have been chosen, the others being "San Diego," "San Juan" and "Juneau," but thus far the exact assignment of the names has not been determined.

Congressman Robert Ramspeck, of Atlanta, who has been working to obtain a ship named after Atlanta, was in Washington when the Navy Department announced the call for bids on the two 6,000-ton cruisers, the Navy embarked on a new category of construction as the vessels are the lightest in modern times. Most cruisers have displacements of 7,000 or 10,000 tons.

Officials declined to say whether the two to go to shipyards would also be of the smaller displacement.

Under the terms of the London treaty, officials explained, the tonnage of cruisers laid down before 1942 is limited to 8,000 tons.

The two major advantages of the small cruisers, officials said, would be speed and economy.

CLAY WILL HEAD CLEARING HOUSE

Dameron Black, W. C. Adamson and Thomas I. Miller Also Elected.

Election of Ryburn G. Clay, president of the Fulton National Bank, as president of the Atlanta Clearing House Association for 1939 was announced yesterday following the organization's annual meeting.

Other officers named were: Dameron Black, vice president of the Trust Company of Georgia, vice president; W. C. Adamson, vice president of the First National Bank, secretary; and Thomas I. Miller, vice president of the Citizens & Southern National Bank, treasurer.

A native of Marietta, Mr. Clay joined the Fulton National organization in 1909 in the capacity of a clerk and has been with the bank ever since. Winning steady and rapid promotion, he was named president in 1929. He is a director and member of the executive committee of the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank and holds similar posts with Rogers Stores, Inc. He is a trustee of the Scottish Rite hospital and recently served as chairman of the Citizens' Committee on County Affairs and as a member of the Joint committee on bond elections.

Mr. Black originally was from Mississippi but has been a resident of Atlanta for more than 35 years. He joined the Trust Company of Georgia 16 years ago as secretary and treasurer and has held a vice presidency since 1933.

Mr. Adamson was first elected secretary of the association in 1932 and has been re-elected each year since that time. A native of Carroll county, he went to work for the old Atlanta National Bank in 1914 as an office boy. After the

R. L. M'DOUGALL NAMED DIRECTOR OF HOUSING WORK

State WPA Official To Assume New Duties as Technical Head of $15-

LOW RENT CHARGE WILL CLEAR SLUMS

Three-Room Apartments
To Cost $9 Per Month
Including Fuel and Heat.

R. L. MacDougall, assistant WPA administrator for Georgia since 1933, yesterday was appointed technical director of the Atlanta Housing Authority. He assumed his new duties immediately.

The appointment breaks up the last of the original state WPA administration set-ups. Miss Gay B. Shepperson, state administrator, and MacDougall had directed the WPA work in Georgia since it was begun. Administrators in other states had not survived political wrangles.

MacDougall said he was accepting the new position as he wished to help build slum clearance projects.

$9-Per-Month Rent.
The four new housing projects planned in Atlanta will have three-room apartments that will rent for $9 per month, including fuel and heat, it was learned. At such low rental rates, it will be financially possible for slum dwellers to live in the apartments, it was pointed out.

"The Atlanta Housing Authority intends to complete its $15,000,000 program with the least possible overhead," the new technical director declared in his first public statement. "There will not be a penny wasted."

"We expect to do an efficient job by keeping everlastingly at it. There are no personnel vacancies to fill."

"The acid test by which the public will measure our ultimate performance is how much we get done."

'Deciding' Resources.

BALDWIN BACKS FIRM ATTITUDE

Trip to Italy May Still Be Made, But No Concessions Are Possible.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today served direct warning on Germany that any Nazi attempt to upset European peace must reckon not only with Britain's vast armaments but also with "our great financial resources, which might prove the deciding factor."

Chamberlain's new word of caution to Chancellor Hitler was considered highly significant in view of information that Earl Baldwin of Bewdley, Chamberlain's predecessor and Britain's outstanding Conservative, is quietly coaching former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's demand for a firmer foreign policy against the dictators.

Speaking at a luncheon in the house of commons honoring the new Lord Bicester—he was Vivian Hugh Smith, prominent banker, before his elevation to the peerage—Chamberlain said: "When German statesmen reflect on the possible consequences of conflict they think not only of our armaments but our great financial resources, which in a war of long duration might prove the deciding factor."

"This has a great influence in preserving the peace of the world. The City of London (the financial district) is one of the great influences and great resources of this country which carries weight abroad."

Pressure against the gaunt, 69-year-old champion of "peace with honor" to force him to take a firmer stand against the menaces

Venus Hoax Sets France All Aflutter

50,000,000 Frenchmen Snicker as Savants Get Fooled by Sculptor.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—(AP)—A Polish night club entertainer pointed proudly to herself today and announced that she was the model for a "Venus of the Turnip Patch" which French experts first hailed as a perfect example of ancient Greek sculpture but now fear was a clever fraud.

The French Department of Fine Arts started an investigation to discover if a young Italian sculptor had hoaxed the most eminent savants and if so what to do about it.

"You can imagine how all the excitement amuses me," said shapely Anna Strudinka, who works in a Lyon night club. "All the time this marvelous Venus was just a statue of me."

Nation Snickering.
Discovery of the statue, buried near Saint Etienne in south-central France, has resulted in a battle royal that has the nation snickering.

The battered marble Venus was called "Venus de Brizet" after the little hamlet near which a peasant unearthed it during spring ploughing.

The find brought experts from Paris and many parts of France to Brizet, where they unanimously pronounced the statue, which lacks one arm, a nose, and legs from the knees down, a perfect example of the neo-Attic period.

It dated, they said, from the reign of Augustus or Hadrian and was a contemporary of the Venus de Milo.

Jean Gonon, the peasant who found it, promptly set it up at his farm house and charged tourists and savants alike 2 francs 50 centimes (6 1/2 cents) to take a look.

Both the French press and European art magazines carried accounts of the discovery. The government issued a decree classifying it as one of France's art treasures which could not be sold abroad without official permission.

Then along came Francesco

LONG CRIME TRAIL IN U. S. DISCLOSED IN DUAL IDENTITY

Plan to Break Neutrality Law by Shipments of 'Magnesia' Is Hinted.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(UP)—F. Donald Coster, president of the $87,000,000 McKesson & Robbins drug concern, who is under indictment in an alleged $18,000,000 fraud, was identified by police tonight as Philip Musica, central figure in the famed Musica "human hair" swindle of a quarter of a century ago.

Inspector Joseph Donovan, of the New York police department, said Coster, arrested this week at his Connecticut home after the sensational exposure of a gigantic drug fraud, had been "definitely identified" as Musica.

"Musica, a youthful business sensation of the pre-war years, was tried and convicted in 1913 for a $2,000,000 swindle involving the vast United States Hair Company.

Son of Immigrant.
It was believed that Musica, son of an Italian immigrant who rose to be a financial power on Wall Street and was associated with many of New York's leading bankers, had used a system similar to that in the McKesson & Robbins case, to "kite" fake bills of sales which defrauded banks of sums totaling more than $2,000,000.

The case was investigated by the William J. Burns detective agency, and Musica took the blame for the entire affair after being tracked to New Orleans and captured as he was about to board a boat for South America.

He was brought back to New York, tried and convicted, and later given a suspended sentence after he had assisted the prosecution in tracing the losses contracted by his trading in "human hair."

Disappeared shortly afterward.

Listed in Who's Who.
Coster is listed in Who's Who, it was revealed tonight.

The directory lists him as having been born in Washington, D. C., in 1884, the son of Frank and Marie Coster, and says he was educated at Heidelberg, Germany, receiving a medical degree there in 1911, and practicing medicine in New York from 1912 to 1914.

During these years, Philip Musica, son of an Italian immigrant,

THREE MEALS A DAY

By SALLY SAVER.

Since it's hog killin' time in the country, and cold weather is here, the members of the family are asking for those hearty pork dishes favored in each family. Thorough cooking develops the best flavor in pork and from the health standpoint, is a prime requisite in using it. These prize recipes should afford you some new dish with which to delight your family or will remind you of an old favorite. Whether you are trying to live within your budget or simply want to introduce more variety in your menus, you will like the following recipes.

Fried Salt Pork.

12 slices fat salt pork
1-3 cup cornmeal
1-3 cup flour
Pepper
Cut the pork about 1-4-inch thick, trim off the rind and make little slashes around the sides so the meat will not curl as it fries. Mix the flour and cornmeal with pepper to season. Parboil the salt pork a few minutes to freshen, dry and dip in the flour and meal. Fry in a hot pan until evenly brown and crisp. Drain on soft paper and arrange on a hot platter.

SALLY SAVER'S FAVORITE RECIPE CONTEST

Homemade candies have an appeal all of their own. They are fun to make and more fun to eat. What do you say that our contest this week shall be on candy recipes? Send your very best recipes to Sally Saver, so they reach here by Tuesday of next week, and if your recipe is published in this column, you win a prize of $1.

per enough to season.

Hominy Croquettes.
1 1/2 cups boiled or canned hominy
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup hot milk
2 teaspoons sugar
1 egg well beaten
Bread crumbs
The hominy should be quite tender. Press through a potato ricer, then add the melted butter and hot milk and beat until the mixture is fluffy and smooth. Add the sugar and a well-beaten egg. Mold the mixture into balls, then roll in sifted dry bread crumbs. Fry in deep fat until golden brown. Drain on soft paper and serve hot.

These are good with meat or you can serve them for contrast in flavor and texture with a vegetable dinner.

"This delicious recipe for fresh hog's head and feet makes a good dish and will keep for several days. It is fine with hot biscuits and coffee," writes Miss Christine Callahan, R. F. D. No. 1, Oxford, Georgia.

Hog Head Sauce Meat.
Have all the hair removed from the hog's head and feet. Boil them together until all the meat comes from the bone easily. Then take all the meat from the bones and run through a food chopper. If there seems to be too much fat remove some before grinding. After you have ground the meat season to taste with red pepper.

For the busy shopping days here is an ideal suggestion by Mrs. Guy Clark, Route 1, Clermont, Ga., and she says:

Take a strip of spare ribs weighing about 3 1/2 to 4 pounds. Wash, season with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Cut raw potatoes in French ball shape or small dice, cut several carrots in fancy shape or dice, one cup of diced celery, a few shelled peas and a small head of cauliflower, cut into separate flowerettes, also peel a medium sized onion. Place all the raw vegetables in a roasting pan and lay the spare ribs over them. Add two cups of boiling water and place in a moderate oven (350 degrees) to cook, allowing about one and a quarter to one and a half hours.

These Quality Service Grocers Are Santa Claus All the Year!

We operate on the principle that to enjoy your patronage we must DESERVE it. In order to deserve your patronage Q. S. S. offers EXTRA SERVICES. If all we could say was that we SAVE YOU MONEY—we would just be on a par with many other stores—after all, prices are about the same in all stores today. It's our EXTRA SERVICES that is causing thousands of wise Atlanta housewives to rely on Q. S. S. for their food needs.

Not every housewife cares to spend hours in tiresome shopping for food—many prefer the convenience of ordering by phone. Not every housewife cares to make a regular dray-horse of herself by carrying heavy bundles of groceries, but prefers the convenience of having the groceries delivered right to her kitchen door. Not every housewife can always have cash on hand every time she needs food items for her family, but prefers to have the convenience of a charge account whereby she can pay at regular intervals to suit her family budget.

All of these EXTRA SERVICES are yours at your neighborhood Q. S. S. at NO EXTRA COST!

CIO REFUSES FUNDS TO UTW EXECUTIVE

Francis Gorman Demands Books and Cash, Cites Court Decision.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—CIO officials rejected today a demand by Francis J. Gorman, president of the United Textile Workers, for his union's books and funds.

At the same time they denounced Gorman's effort to lead textile workers out of the CIO's Textile Workers' Organizing Committee as a treacherous attempt to "split labor's ranks."

Gorman and his associates indicated they would try to recover $500,000 they contended their union members had paid the TWOC since March, 1937, and said the refusal to transfer the funds to them would probably be made the basis of a suit in federal court.

Gorman, in the first step directed at reviving the UTW as a separate union, ordered James Starr, secretary-treasurer of the UTW, to transfer all funds and properties of the UTW from the New York headquarters of the Textile Workers' Organizing Committee to Washington.

He contended a Rhode Island court decision had dissolved the TWOC.

The CIO reported four "former UTW vice presidents" joined in denouncing Gorman's action.

Among them was John Peel, representing southern textile organizations.

Gorman, announcing he had joined an AFL union, denounced the TWOC for its "dictatorial policies" and proposed a convention of the UTW to determine the union's future policy of affiliation.

He said there were 100,000 members in the UTW. Their defection from the CIO would be the second major withdrawal from Lewis' Congress for Industrial Organization. The International Ladies' Garment Workers refused last month to join the CIO's permanent set-up. The ILGW claims 250,000 members.

Don't Burn Leaves, Let City Haul 'Em Off

A warning against the burning of leaves and rubbish near houses was issued yesterday by H. J. Cates, chief of the sanitary department.

Cates said Atlanta's smoke problem could be partly solved if homeowners would rake up their leaves and rubbish and let the sanitary department haul it away.

He added that Atlanta's skyline is almost free of smokestacks because of the co-operation of industrialists and businessmen.

WOULD DEPORT ALIENS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(UP) The controversial house investigation into un-American activities ended today after Bishop Adna Wright Leonard of the Methodist Episcopal church, Pittsburgh, urged deportation of aliens on relief rolls and advocated a thorough inquiry in 70 federal publications allegedly promoting class hatred.

When a "hard click" ball forms when portion is tested in cup of cold water, add soda, mix well and while forming pour over corn (unsalted). Let stand three minutes, take up portions, in hands and press into balls about three inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper and store in dry place.

Caramel Cookies. (For the Lonely Bachelor.) 2 cups old-fashioned brown sugar 2 cups shortening 2 eggs, beaten 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon baking powder 3 cups flour

Cream butter and add old-fashioned brown sugar. Add beaten eggs. Mix dry ingredients and add. Put in cookies, press or roll out to 1-8 inch thickness and cut into fancy shapes. Bake on greased cookie sheet in a hot oven 10-15 minutes.

FREEZE OF 28 DEGREES FORECAST FOR TODAY

A freeze is indicated for this morning, the Weather Bureau reported last night, with the mercury expected to fall to 28 degrees.

The cold weather, bureau officials explained, is caused by a high-pressure area north of Atlanta, and probably will be short-lived. Yesterday's high and low readings were 53 and 33 degrees.

TREASURY'S DEBT TOPS 39 BILLION, GOES TO NEW HIGH

Finland and Hungary Pay on War Obligations; Others Again Default.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(P)—The Treasury's debt soared to a new high of $39,400,000,000 today. This occurred when investors paid for $730,000,000 of new bonds and notes sold by the government.

Meantime, another war debt payment day rolled around, and nothing was received except from Finland, which remitted its $232,935 installment in full, as usual.

Hungary made a small partial payment on its post-war debt, with a reminder that it is still awaiting consideration of its offer of February 7 to make a debt readjustment.

$1,891,489,906 Unpaid.

The total amount of debts falling due today from 13 nations was $160,217,334. Previously due, unpaid debts total $1,891,489,906.

An echo of the recent German-Czechoslovak crisis reached here when the Czech government pleaded "recent heavy territorial losses" as the reason for its inability to reopen discussion of its debt to this country.

Czechoslovakia now is in default of $19,681,026.41 of loans made to that government after its establishment in 1918.

Check From Hungary.

Hungary sent a check for $9,828.16 as a token payment on its current installment of $51,755.66. Hungary previously was in default on debts totaling $485,428.25.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, expressed his gratification to Hungary.

"The President," he stated, "on March 28 recommended to the consideration of the congress proposals of the Hungarian government for a new debt arrangement and expressed the belief that they represented a noteworthy wish and effort of the Hungarian government to meet its obligations to this government."

TANGUAY IS IMPROVING.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 15.—(P)—Eva Tanguay, one-time stage idol who became seriously ill a week ago, was reported by her physician tonight to be much improved.

THIRD U. S. NOTE WARNS GERMANY

Nazis Reminded Their Nationals Now Have Equal Rights in America.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(UP)—The State Department, in the third note to the German government within a few weeks, has demanded immediate assurance that American Jews residing in Germany will not be affected by the Nazi regime's anti-Semitic decrees, it was disclosed today.

Delivery of the note yesterday to the German foreign ministry by Prentiss Gilbert, of the United States embassy in Berlin, was revealed by Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles. Gilbert is in charge of American affairs during the absence of Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson, who was recalled by President Roosevelt for "report and consultation."

The latest note expressed "disappointment" over Germany's failure to give assurance, as requested in previous representations, that Americans in Germany, regardless of race or creed, will not be embraced by the decrees, and reminded Germany that this nation afforded German citizens rights equal to those of other foreign nationals in the United States.

JEWISH "FINE" DISAPPOINTING.

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—(P)—Additional levies on German Jewish wealth were considered likely today as finance ministry officials indicated the first installment of a $400,000,000 fine on Jews failed to reach expectations.

The officials were skeptical whether the full "tribute" of 1,000,000,000 marks ($400,000,000) for the slaying last month of the German diplomat, Ernst vom Rath by a young Jew in Paris could be exacted from German Jews on the basis of a 20 per cent levy decreed November 12 on Jewish fortunes above $2,000.

Payment of the first quarterly installment today was orderly and businesslike, as far as could be determined, but it was indicated that the Jews were found not to have as much ready cash as it was first thought and offered bonds, stocks and real estate to make up the amounts levied against them.

It was said the Nazi officials probably would not be able to realize enough from the sale of the property relinquished by the Jews, however, and there was talk of boosting the next three installments from 20 per cent to 25 per cent in an effort to insure the collection of the 1,000,000,000-mark total.

ATLANTA UNIVERSITY STUDENTS WILL SING

Traditional songs of Christmas cheer will feature the program of the twelfth annual Christmas carol concert to be presented at 8 o'clock tonight in Sisters chapel by students of Atlanta University, Morehouse College and Spelman College.

Kemper Harrell, director of music at Morehouse, and Spelman will direct and the concert will be open to the public without charge. Several new carols will be included, also a number of negro spirituals.

Atlanta Cadet Flier Meets Commander

An Atlanta flying cadet meets the commanding general. When Major General H. H. Arnold, new chief of the Army Air Corps, visited Randolph Field, Texas, "West Point of the Air," he took time out to chat with many of the student pilots who soon will be graduated and will take their places in Uncle Sam's air force. From left to right, General Arnold, Cadets Lewis B. Meng, of Atlanta, and T. W. Hornsby, of Columbia, S. C. Meng, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis F. Meng, 19 Exeter road, Avondale, was graduated from The Citadel.

TVA POWER RATES CALLED PROFITABLE

Utilities Could Show Good Returns With Same Scale, Expert Says.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(P)—A New York power expert told congressional investigators today that private utilities could make good profits selling electricity at the low rates charged by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Leland Olds, executive secretary of the New York Power Authority, vigorously disputed the frequently advanced contention that TVA competition would destroy investments in private power systems.

On the contrary, he said, the incentive of competition should stimulate business, yield greater earnings and lead the privately owned enterprises on to "greater things."

Olds said that municipalities and co-operatives marketing TVA power had shown a profit of 11 1/2 per cent in 1938. The time probably will come, he added, when the TVA yardstick will be considered to high rather than a "daring experiment."

PEACE IS SOUGHT IN MEMPHIS ROW

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 15.—(P)—Memphis Power & Light Company today sought a cessation of hostilities in its knock-down, drag-out fight with the partly-completed city-TVA electric system, and proposed a resumption of peaceful negotiations.

W. J. O'Brien, utility president, sent a letter to the city light and water commission, saying the company was "prepared to live up to the agreement of September 30, which you and TVA made with us for the purchase of our electric properties at a price of $13,500,000."

MOORE ELECTED HEAD OF ORDER OF PILOTS

G. W. Moore has been elected president of the Atlanta Lodge No. 1, Protective Order of Pilots, it was announced yesterday.

Other officers are G. A. Maddox, first vice president; T. W. Tolbert, second vice president; J. L. Towery, secretary; C. M. Towery, treasurer; Paul Davenport, chaplain, and S. O. Gay, sentinel. On the board of trustees are C. M. (Mac) Bolen, W. M. Aycock, Ernest J. Brewer, J. Fred Williams and R. P. Pittman.

Christmas Seal Booth Serves Old Post Office

A Christmas seal booth, where Atlantans may purchase any amount of penny stamps, was opened yesterday in the lobby of the old post office, according to announcement by Charles E. Shepard, president of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association.

"We opened this booth," said Shepard, "for the convenience of those persons who may need additional seals for their Christmas packages and cards, as well as for those who did not receive seals through the mail. It is obvious that our mailing list could not possibly include every person wanting Christmas seals and we earnestly ask these to please visit our booth in the old post office."

Shepard also issued an urgent appeal for prompt remittance of contributions for Christmas seals received by mail. He pointed out that the association has heard from only one-third of the persons who were mailed seals the day after Thanksgiving.

"Every Christmas seal helps to save a life and protects your own home from tuberculosis," he said. "You can do your part in this vital life-saving campaign by sending in your contribution today."

'WAR HYSTERIA' HIT BY SENATOR CLARK

Missourian Thinks Invasion 'Beyond Imagination.'

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 15.—(P)—Senator Bennett Clark, Democrat, Missouri, said in an interview today America should forget "this silly war hysteria," and suggested discretionary power to apply the neutrality act should be taken from the President.

Clark, frequently mentioned as a potential presidential nominee in 1940, told newsmen invasion of the United States "is beyond the bounds of reasonable human imagination."

He said he favored adequate defense but strongly opposed any armament program created "by a war hysteria that served only as another excuse for a major pumping program to pour countless millions of federal dollars into circulation."

TO SELL SCHOOL BONDS.

HAHIRA, Ga., Dec. 15.—The Hahira consolidated school district will sell $21,000 in school bonds to the highest bidder December 20.

FEDERAL EMPLOYEES TO HONOR RAMSPECK

Congressman To Be Guest at Local Union's Annual Dinner.

Congressman Robert Ramspeck will be honor guest at the annual dinner of Local 122, National Federation of Federal Employees, to be given at 7 o'clock tonight in the Piedmont hotel.

Chairman of the house committee on civil service affairs, Ramspeck has long been known for his diligent work on behalf of federal employees and for his sponsorship of bills designed to extend and better the civil service.

In Washington for the last several weeks preparing for the congressional session of congress, Ramspeck left for Atlanta yesterday and is expected to return the day after the banquet. He is accompanied by his wife.

Other prominent guests will be Luther C. Steward, founder and president of the National Federation of Federal Employees, and John Barrett, president of the United Association of Post Office Clerks. Barrett is also chairman of the National Legislative Council, composed of representatives of federal employee organizations, with the purpose of obtaining uniform legislation to govern all groups.

SCOUT CAMP ENGINEER, HARVEY GORDON, DIES

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(P)—Harvey A. Gordon, 54, national camp engineer for the Boy Scouts of America and head of the Scouts' Engineering Service since 1930, died today of an abdominal obstruction.

He was in charge of construction at the Scout jamboree in Washington in 1937 and for American contingents to recent world jamborees in England, Holland and Hungary.

RAINS WREAK HAVOC ON CALIFORNIA COAST

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(P)—One life was lost at sea, 12 families were marooned in Mint canyon by floods, and the Roosevelt Coast highway was closed to traffic because of slides as the first rainstorm of the season continued to drench southern California tonight.

More than 100 automobiles were stalled in the flooded streets of Van Nuys. Two miners' cabins were washed from their foundations in Mint canyon, north of here.

Election of Lawrence Willet, insurance man, as president of the board of directors of the Atlanta Y. M. C. A., and development of plans for the seventeenth annual Christmas party to underprivileged boys who are members of the organization featured a meeting of the board yesterday.

Willet succeeds Ray C. Lang who held the post four consecutive years. Other officers designated were: E. W. Moise, attorney, vice president; George Winship, banker, treasurer; Floyd Field, dean at Georgia Tech, secretary; James C. Shelor, banker, and the Rev. Harold Smith, director of religious education of the Atlanta presbytery, were named as new members of the board.

The party for 325 underprivileged boys of Atlanta who are members of the Y. M. C. A. boys' club, will be held at the "Y" Tuesday night, it was said.

Reports indicated that the association is contributing largely to development of the physical life and character of young men and boys of the community.

Other directors are Milton W. Bell, F. J. Coledge Jr., Floyd Field, S. C. Dobbs, C. G. Green, Lang, Paul W. Miller, L. Moise, Thomas W. Moore, Fred L. Rand, J. M. Shelton, Frank B. Sites, Willis A. Sutton, Joseph M. Tull, Willet and Winship.

Cathedral of St. Philip's MembersHonor Dean Raimundo de Ovies*Beloved Religious Leader Is Presented With New Automobile.

A new car "dedicated to the course of religion" was presented Dean Raimundo de Ovies last night as several hundred members of the Cathedral of St. Philip and friends of the church gathered to honor the beloved religious leader on the tenth anniversary of his death.

George Bland, life warden of the Cathedral, made the presentation, and in delivering the keys to the dean declared:

"The gift of this car represents the satisfaction and contentment we all have with you as our dean. It is dedicated to your course of religion and to the need of your work. It is given you as one whose circle of activities is greater than just the affairs of the church, and it carries the warmest greetings and affection from friends in and out of the church who wish for you many more years here as dean, as well as a citizen of our city."

Once in Galveston, Dean de Ovies came to the Cathedral from the University of the South where he was chaplain. Prior to that time he had been rector of Old Trinity church in Galveston, and had also been in charge of parishes in Alabama and Tennessee. He received his training at Seawane.

Noted for his work among children, Dean de Ovies has been active in Scout work and at present there are 120 children in his church school class. He was instrumental in starting the juvenile court in Birmingham. He is a brilliant minister, lecturer, psychologist, author and artist.

Last night's reception gathered church members and friends, plans for the affair being in charge of Fred Gould Sr., senior warden, and Dr. Calhoun McDougall, junior warden. Chapter members acted as co-hosts and were D. B. Alexander, L. W. Conner, W. J. Cordes, H. Ewing Dean, Beverly DuBois, Morris Ewing, Albert Feeney, Stuart Gould, T. H. Kidd, C. A. Meriwether, W. L. Percy, Harry L. Rees, C. M. Watt, George Bland, Dr. Sterling Claiborne, Dr. Crawford Barnett, Dr. J. G. McDaniel and Dr. C. T. Neilans.

Mrs. Calhoun McDougall, as chairman, and Mrs. Charles T. Neilans, as co-chairman, were co-hostesses and were assisted by wives of the chapter members. A group of younger members of the church who served were Jean LeFebvre, Josephine McDougall, Betty Hodges, Jessie Shepard, Eleanor Lanham, Betsey Weller, Patty Hunt and Betty McIntosh.

WOODWARD GIVEN AUTO BY ALUMNI

G. M. A. President Honored by Association in Ceremony at School.

Colonel J. C. Woodward, who founded the Georgia Military Academy in College Park 40 years ago, was honored yesterday by the Alumni Association and presented with an automobile as a mark of the organization's "love and admiration."

George W. West, chairman of the board of trustees, presented the car, made possible through contributions of members of the Alumni Association, at ceremonies at the academy at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Brief speeches were made by Dr. Lewis H. Muse, president of the Alumni Association, and L. G. Hardman, of Commerce, a trustee of the academy. A parade by the cadet corps was a feature of the exercises.

BLOND HOSTESS BURNED TO DEATH

20 Escape in Apartment
House Fire.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 15.—(P) An apartment house fire early today caused the death of one tenant, serious injuries to another and sent 20-odd others, most of them in night clothes, scrambling to safety in the chill morning.

Mrs. Virginia Wright Latta, 52, blond hostess at a Memphis cafeteria, was burned to death in her second-floor bedroom. Firemen found her body lying across her bed, face up. Fire Chief Irby Klinck said apparently she had been overcome by heat and smoke.

'The Gimp' Claims Self-Defense, Hints at Scandal in Testimony

Says Alderman Drew Gun First, and That He Merely Fired 'in His Direction,' Maintains He Visited Couple
To Discuss Property Settlement.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(P) In staccato sentences peppered with slang and hints of scandal, "Colonel" Martin (The Gimp) Snyder enthralled jury and spectators today with his story of how and why he shot and slightly wounded Myrl Alderman, 30, pianist and former accompanist of Snyder's divorced wife, Radio Singer Ruth Etting.

The shooting occurred in Alderman's home the night of October 15. Also present were Miss Etting and Snyder's daughter by a previous marriage, Edith Snyder, 21, who is Miss Etting's secretary.

The little, bushy-browed Snyder, who was Miss Etting's manager and husband for 17 years, declared he fired only because he believed Alderman was about to try to kill him. Snyder said he had no intention of killing Alderman and merely fired "in his direction," without taking aim, because Alderman had produced a pistol from his pocket while sitting on a piano bench.

Denying prosecution testimony, the 44-year-old "colonel" asserted he never had threatened to "put a bullet through" Miss Etting's and Alderman's heads.

He said he was drunk when he told Miss Etting by telephone from New York last January he would come to California and kill her and himself.

Snyder is accused of attempting to murder Miss Etting and his daughter, as well as Alderman. Miss Snyder testified she shot at her father after he shot Alderman and after he struggled with Miss Etting for possession of the singer's own pistol. Actor Al Jolson gave Miss Etting the pistol several years ago, Snyder testified.

Snyder also denied he kidnapped Alderman, as charged, at a Hollywood radio studio and forced him to go to the Alderman home, where the women were.

Snyder testified he went to the Alderman home to get to the bottom of reports that Alderman and Miss Etting were married and to discuss property settlement matters in connection with Snyder-Etting divorce of November, 1937.

U. S. COURT OF APPEALS OKAYS MARKETING ACT

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 15.—(P) The United States fifth circuit court of appeals today upheld the constitutionality of the agricultural marketing agreement act of 1937. The decision affirmed a similar ruling by a western district of Texas federal court.

The South Texas Produce Company, which brought the action, claimed the act violated the tenth amendment to the federal constitution which Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace issued an order under the act restricting certain shipments of grapefruit from Cameron, Hidalgo and Willacy counties in Texas.

NEWSPAPER HEADS ADOPT NO. 1 FAMILY

been pledged for the coming year. The "26 club," composed of traffic policemen, adopted Opportunity Family No. 4 outright for the second consecutive year.

But, there are eight more families to be taken care of in The Constitution's annual Ten Opportunities — eight more dreadfully needy but deserving families, each struggling with an almost overpowering problem. Atlantans must help them. They can win independence if helped a little bit at the right time.

It was with this knowledge that Major Howell yesterday volunteered to give one half the remaining amount needed by the L family for 1939. He pledged $120 for the aid of this family.

The 22 department heads of The Constitution quickly donated the other $120 necessary for the L family.

The year: H. H. Trotti (who is treasurer of the Ten Opportunities fund), George Stone, Cecil Holleran, John K. Otley Jr., Roby Robinson, A. J. Kaiser, J. H. Moye, H. G. Miller, Ralph T. Jones, Ralph McGill, Jack Troy, Howard Haire, Mrs. Mainer Lee Toler, N. S. Noble, Lamar Q. Ball, William Turner, Wade Grice, Kenneth Rogers, Miss Lillie Mae Robinson, W. C. Wynne, George Kreeger and James Warrington.

With Major Howell, they are making The Constitution's contribution to a cause they believe and know to be worth while. They are giving at Christmas time with the spirit of Christmas charity, but they know their donations are to be spent all through the year, every day, week and month, for the benefit of Opportunity Family No. 1.

The Constitution urges that all Atlantans try to do something for needy families this year. Perhaps it hasn't been your best year, by far, but the chances are you can give something without seriously hurting yourself.

There is no amount too small to be of help to the hardpressed families that make up Ten Opportunities for giving. Every year this newspaper, with the co-operation of the Family Welfare Society, presents the 10 neediest and most deserving families. Every year, Atlanta has cared for them.

Send in your donations now. Bring or mail the quarter, dollar or any number of dollars you can spare to Mr. Trotti, who is vice-president and business manager of The Constitution. Every bit, or two bits, helps!

Do your Christmas giving early!

TEXTILE ORGANIZER SEEKS HIS PAROLE

Prisoner Portrayed as Victim of 'Gross Injustice.'

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 15.—(P)—Charges the state "suppressed testimony" in the trial of Homer Welch, textile union organizer, under a 10-year sentence growing out of a fatal picket line battle, were made before the State Pardon Board today by Roderick Beddow, Birmingham attorney.

Beddow, arguing that Welch should be paroled as the victim of a "gross injustice," made this statement in his final address to the board after a full day's hearing. Taking the case under consideration, the board did not indicate when it would act.

Welch was convicted in the

Survive Rhodes Test—But Another Remains

Morris Abram, left, of Fitzgerald, a student at the University of Georgia, and Wilfred McKenzie, of Montezuma, who attends Duke University, were selected yesterday from a field of nine candidates as Georgia's finalists in the Rhodes scholarships competition.

POST OF JUSTICE ACCEPTED BY REID

he will seek the office permanently.

Charlie Reid is only 41 and will be the youngest chief justice in the history of the state. He was born near Blairsville, where he attended elementary school. There his boyhood friend was Henry Duckworth, who now is an associate justice of the court which Reid will join tomorrow.

The two boys went to Young Harris College, walking several miles back and forth each day and doing odd jobs at night and on Saturday to pay their way.

Meet Rivers.

At Young Harris the two met and were attracted to an agile young fellow from Arkansas who bore the unusual name of Eurith D. Rivers. Eurith's nickname then was "Kid," but they soon changed it to "Ed." The boys were inseparable, Rivers and Duckworth studying law and Reid preparing himself for a business career.

The friendship formed in college has continued since. After graduation Rivers and Duckworth went to Cairo and opened a law office, the former going later to Lanier county which was afterward to send him to the legislature and on to the governorship. Duckworth stayed in Cairo, became a state senator, later an assistant attorney general under the Rivers administration and last month went on the supreme court.

Reid's odd jobs included working in a bank, and he was a recognized bank cashier at 14. Just prior to the war he came to Atlanta and went to work as a teller in the old Atlanta & Lowry Bank, going to the Atlanta Law School at night. After several rejections he was accepted for enlistment in the marine corps shortly before the Armistice.

Goes to Gainesville.

The war ended, Reid went to Gainesville and into the bank business, eventually becoming cashier of the Citizens' Bank by studying law all the while.

The new chief justice stayed in the bank even after being admitted to the bar, but in time he quit and took up the law in earnest. About 15 years ago the old law firm of Little, Powell, Smith and Goldstein was looking for a bright young man. Marion Smith then a member of the firm, went to Gainesville to try a case. The lawyer for the other side was Charlie Reid.

Mr. Smith lost the case and when he returned to Atlanta he informed Mr. Little and Judge Powell that he had found the bright young man they were looking for—Charlie Reid. And in a

GEORGIANS ADVANCE IN RHODES EXAMS

University of Georgia and Duke Students To Take District Tests.

By CARY WILMER.

Two young Georgians, one from the University of Georgia and the other from Duke University, emerged victorious from an ordeal by oral examination here yesterday to become this state's finalists in the race for the coveted Rhodes scholarships.

Winners in the field of nine candidates were Morris Abram, of Fitzgerald, who attends the University of Georgia, and Wilfred McKenzie, of Montezuma, who goes to Duke.

They were selected by the five-man Georgia committee after a series of informal questions which covered everything from the solution of Georgia's tax problems to the highlights of Plato's philosophy.

More Tests to Come.

And their troubles are not yet over. Tomorrow they will undergo a similar test in competition with the two winners from each of the other five states in the southern district. The top four in this field of 12 will be awarded scholarships—which offer two years of financed education at Oxford University.

The road to this much sought-after goal is long and hazardous. Only 32 candidates out of a field of more than 500 will be successful.

In addition to the winners, the Georgia candidates examined yesterday were: John R. Williams Jr., of Atlanta, Davidson College; Jack E. Branch, of Washington, D. C., Emory University; Robert P. McCuen, of Savannah, University of Georgia; Floyd C. Newton Jr., of Madison, University of Georgia; Alfred Morgan, of Atlanta, University of Georgia; Ed Brannen, of Millen, Emory University; and John M. Birch, of Macon, Mercer University.

Warrick E. Elrod, of Atlanta, Harvard University, was certified for the examination but did not attend.

The state committee which conducted the examination was composed of Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory University, chairman; Dean R. B. Brooks, of the University of Georgia, secretary; Allen Post, of Atlanta; Dr. H. M. Cleckley, of Augusta, and Professor C. F. Zeek, of Vanderbilt University.

few months Charlie Reid was a junior member of the firm. Today Mr. Smith is associated with Harold Hirsch and the old firm is Little, Powell, Smith and Goldstein. Mr. Little, the firm's president, still uses his name. The name, Reid, must be eliminated now.

Supported Rivers.

Charlie Reid stuck to the law and Ed Rivers throughout the years. He didn't interest himself in politics unless Ed Rivers was involved but when the Rivers cause was at stake Reid always was on hand. So were all the other "Young Harris boys."

Upon his election in 1936, Governor Rivers prevailed on Reid to become chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee for two years, a post which Reid relinquished in October because it had worn down his health and was taking too much of his time.

The new chief justice was in a Savannah hospital when Chief Justice Russell died two weeks ago, but Governor Rivers quickly let it be known that the post would go to his old friend if Reid wanted it. Reid returned to Atlanta Saturday and the Governor formally tendered him the appointment.

Reid held a number of conferences with friends and associates as finally went to Blairsville to talk to his mother.

Wednesday he declined, but later accepted.

Tomorrow he will mount the bench.

Although the idea of using the old Reid family Bible for tomorrow's ceremony is that of the chief justice's mother, Charlie Reid shares the sentiment with her. Almost any Bible would do, but he has a preference for the one from back home in the hills.

Another Reid Recalled.

It will be the second time the Bible has been used to swear in a Reid as a judge.

In the nineties, the new chief justice's uncle, the late Judge Harry M. Reid, of Atkinson, ran against W. Y. Atkinson Sr., of Newnan for solicitor general of the Coweta circuit. Solicitors general then were elected by the legislature. On the first day of balloting the vote ended in a tie and the legislature recessed over night.

During the night Mr. Reid became the father of twins. The next morning a wave of Reid sentiment swept over the assembly. The members wanted to make the proud father even prouder, and they voted him into office.

After completing his tenure, Solicitor General Reid moved to Atlanta and began practicing law. Mr. Atkinson meanwhile becoming Governor. There came a vacancy on the bench of the city court of Atlanta, now the criminal court of Fulton county. Governor Atkinson, over the protest of a vast majority of Atlanta lawyers, appointed his old friend and opponent, Harry M. Reid. To the protesting lawyers who didn't like a man new to Atlanta getting the appointment, Governor Atkinson said:

"Give him six months on the bench and he will show you I have made a wise choice."

Judge Reid used the family Bible to take his oath.

The Governor's prediction held true. Judge Reid presided over the court for 30 years and there never was so much as a murmur of opposition to him; no one so much as announcing against him. He died in 1926.

Governor Rivers said yesterday that he was "very happy" that his old friend had chosen to accept the chief justiceship.

"I do not think there are many who will believe I have made an unwise choice because Charlie

SALES OF PAPERS TO INCREASE FUND FOR BIG BROTHERS

Atlanta's Business Men, Women, De Molay Boys To Join Forces Sunday to Cheer City's Poor.

On December 25, thousands of Atlanta children will wake early, and run excitedly through their homes to see what Santa Claus has left for them. And most of them will be delightfully happy with their new dolls, shiny wagons, all the things for which they asked.

But there will be other children, just as eager, just as hopeful, who will find nothing. And there will be many parents forced to explain wretchedly that, somehow, Santa happened to forget them.

That is, unless you take advantage of the opportunity offered you by the Big Brothers to bring Christmas joy into the poorest homes of the city.

Will Canvass Streets.

The Big Brothers, an army of men, hundreds strong, will take over the streets of Atlanta next Sunday in their sixth annual war against misery and poverty. Selling special Big Brother editions of The Constitution, successful businessmen, turned newsboys for two hours, will raise money to fill Christmas baskets for the poor. They have volunteered from all walks of life. Their names include some of the most outstanding business and professional men of the city. And they include some men not much better off financially than the people they are going to help.

As one volunteer said, "I have barely enough for myself and family. It is impossible for me to give any money to the cause. But I can give my time, and feel that I have done something to better the lot of some folks in worse shape than we are."

Boys' High De Molays Join Big Brothers in Selling

Tonight, leaders of the Big Brother movement will meet at 8 o'clock in their headquarters at 56 Peachtree street. Called by General Chairman A. L. Belle Isle, who was drafted to head the drive again this year after last year's successful campaign, they will lay final plans for the great paper sale next Sunday, and the charity balls to be held December 21.

Dance at the Mosque.

The dances will be held in the Egyptian ballroom of the Shrine Mosque, and in the new American Legion clubhouse in Piedmont park. Tickets, now on sale for 50 cents each, will admit you to both parties.

Marion L. Boswell, chairman of the dances, has engaged two of the most popular dance orchestras in the south. "We are making plans to make the dances better than ever," Boswell said last night, "with the best music in the city, floor shows, and other entertainment." The Big Brothers' annual charity ball has become one of the most popular features of the Christmas season, and for very good reasons. They're fun to attend and everybody has the satisfaction of knowing that the money they spend goes to a worthy, charitable cause.

The latest groups to volunteer for the Big Brother paper sale Sunday are the members of the Women's Chamber of Commerce, and the DeMolay Club of Boys' High. And if you're interested in doing a lot of good clip the attached coupon, fill it in, volunteering two hours of your time as a newsboy Sunday, and mail or bring it to Big Brother Headquarters, at 56 Peachtree street.

FRANCE MAY BUY PLANES ABROAD

Arms Budget Shot Over Billion Mark as Warning Is Issued.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—(UP)—A warning that France may be forced to purchase large numbers of airplanes abroad, particularly in the United States, in preparation for the next Italo-German "surprise" tonight spurred debate on the new French budget in increasing arms expenditures to above the $1,000,000,000 mark.

Henri de Kerillis, one of Premier Edouard Daladier's most dogged critics, asserted in his newspaper, "L'Epoque," that in the first six months of the aviation production year French factories turned out only 240 planes instead of the 1,200 called for and that the slump for October and November will be even greater because of labor troubles.

Kerillis warned that early in March of 1939 Italy and Germany are going to be ready to "put forward new demands" in Europe and will have a combined air force of 3,000 fighting and 5,000 bombing planes.

The warning followed a similar one to the chamber of deputies by commission by Naval Minister Cesar Campinchi who reported that naval construction is falling far behind schedule. He referred to an eight-month delay in launching the new battleship Richelieu and an 11-month delay in completing her sister ship, the Jean Bart.

The new budget calls for a total expenditure of $1,744,873,500. Of this figure $383,746,300 is allotted outright to defense but, in addition, there is an extraordinary

CRASH ENDS CHASE; DRIVER IS INJURED

James Waldrop, 17, Sent to Hospital With Fractured Leg.

A brief, but wild, chase of a car which Radio Patrolmen W. F. Sutherland and T. J. Avery said was stolen ended at about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the vehicle overturned three times and crashed into a tree in front of 351 Greenwood avenue, seriously injuring the driver.

The driver was listed as James Waldrop, 17, of a Williams street address. He suffered a fractured right leg and a possible skull fracture. He was admitted to Grady hospital under police guard.

Radio Patrolmen Sutherland and Avery reported the car passed a stop sign on Forrest road, at North avenue. The officers immediately gave chase, with the pursued car driving at high speed. The pursuit progressed several blocks until the driver lost control. Police said the car, property of a rented car agency, was taken Wednesday afternoon from in front of 1075 Peachtree street.

NEGRO GETS $20,000, POPE ESTATE LEGACY

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP)—William Youngblood, 60-year-old negro, received a check for $20,000 today as his legacy from the late Mrs. Mary Wynn Pope.

Youngblood served Mrs. Pope and her husband, the late Frederick Ball Pope, for 40 years as a servant.

The will was contested and only recently the state supreme court upheld the item affecting Youngblood.

Miss Lettie Pope, of Washington, Ga., is life beneficiary of the residue of the estate. of the Rome-Berlin axis was crystallizing in several quarters tonight.

Developments included:

1 Baldwin, who left No. 10 Downing Street with his prestige soaring as result of his handling of the Edward VIII abdication crisis, was understood to be lending support to growing open opposition throughout the country toward Chamberlain's "appeasement" policy growing out of the Munich pact. This opposition includes not only Laborites and Liberals but a sizable wing of dissident Conservatives.

2 A mobilization of the opposition for the first direct challenge to Chamberlain's entire policy when a Labor party motion to the effect that "this house

HITLER DEMANDS ACTION ON COLONIES

Fuehrer and Goering Assert Nation Has 'Strongest Fortifications.'

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Chancellor Hitler and Field Marshal Goering asserted tonight that Germany possesses the strongest fortifications in the world and realizes that her demands for colonies can be satisfied "only by action."

Hitler and Goering spoke before 3,000 automobile highway builders gathered to hear Reich Commissioner of Roads Fritz Todt reveal a program calling for construction of 8,075 miles of new highways throughout the greater Reich.

Todt, who directed the rapid building of the military highways serving Germany's new Siegfried line of fortifications in the Rhineland, announced that 1,863 miles of new highways already have been completed in Germany proper, Austria and the Sudetenland.

Announcement of the highway network coincided with information that the next few months would reveal a sharp shift away from armaments toward co-ordination of the nation's transport system as a necessity of national defense.

"We want to make Germany so strong that nobody can destroy us," Hitler said in his speech. "The outside world has forced upon us the task of building fortifications such as the world has not yet seen."

These fortifications are no mere copies of other existing fortifications but a work which corresponds with the German strength.

"There were times when, in addition to the labor service and troops, 100,000 people were occupied in building these fortifications. This work illustrated the unification of the German nation."

Goering's speech, more in fighting vein than Hitler's, dealt with the crowded existence of the German people and the demand for restoration of the Reich's war-torn colonies.

Power Line Poles Build New Industry

DUBLIN, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Laurens county ruralites are harvesting a new crop with axe and hoe on trees for use as power line poles in the rural electrification program.

Buckeye, bailey and Burgamy districts are busiest. Workmen fell the trees and skin them with specially shaped hoses, using lengths from 35 to 65 feet.

Four or five carloads of the poles are shipped weekly to plants, where the timber is treated with creosote and other preservatives.

has no confidence in the foreign policy of His Majesty's government is debated in commons Monday. The motion is so worded that it passed—and it cannot, conceivably, because of the large Conservative majority—the government would be forced to resign.

3 The Duchess of Atholl, a Conservative member of the house of commons for 15 years until she broke with Chamberlain over the "peace of Munich" and Britain's attitude toward the Spanish civil war, will oppose an official Conservative candidate in a bye-election at Perth, Scotland, next Wednesday. She is running as an independent on a platform which, if successful, would be a direct rebuke to Chamberlain.

4 There were growing indications that, although the prime minister still is determined to visit Premier Benito Mussolini in Rome in mid-January, he would be unable to offer any concessions to the Italian interests in a general appeasement and elimination of the dictators themselves are prepared to take a conciliatory attitude.

Speaking in the house of commons today, Chamberlain sought to take the sting out of a banquet speech Tuesday night by Colonial and Dominions Secretary Malcolm MacDonald who warned that the British Empire may crumble and disintegrate "within our time" unless a spreading spirit of nationalism among some of the dominions is curbed.

The extent of growing British resentment toward Germany, intensified by the Reich's anti-Semitic drive and by Tuesday night's Nazi boycott of Chamberlain's speech before the Foreign Press Association, was revealed by another development on the floor of commons.

Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary, was asked to state the government's attitude toward cases "in which British employees in the service of German firms in London have been dismissed in consequence of instructions received by such firms from the German government that they cease employing persons of Jewish faith after December 25."

The assertion that Germany was attempting to extend her anti-Semitic program to English soil was made by Lieutenant Commander R. T. H. Fletcher, Laborite. Fletcher said he had two fully authenticated cases of such dismissals and Hoare promised that they would be investigated, although the government has no legal power to take action against the German firms.

The Laborite had asked that the government "compel German firms enjoying our hospitality to conform with civilized standards and the racial and religious toleration prevailing here."

Phil Plant, Former N. Y. Playboy, Takes Marjorie King as 3d Bride

Couple Will Spend Their Honeymoon Bagging African Ostriches.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Phil Plant, one-time Broadway playboy and now a de luxe chicken farmer from Oswegatchie, Conn., took his third bride today—Marjorie King, former show girl and now the successor to Constance Bennett and Mrs. Edna Dunham Plant.

The wedding took place in virtual seclusion in the home of his mother, Mrs. William Hayward, without the assistance of a best man or even an usher.

Immediately afterwards, Plant announced that he intended to settle down to a peaceful life, and the first place he would look for it would be in British East Africa, where he and his bride are going on a combined honeymoon and ostrich hunt.

They will leave January 4 and expect to return with some stuffed ostriches for the American Museum of Natural History.

Although Plant had given ample warning of his wedding, the affair took place almost in secrecy. Colonel Hayward, his stepfather, gave the bride away amid the palms and Easter lilies of the spacious drawing room of the Hayward home.

Plant wore a cutaway coat and gray striped trousers, and the bride was dressed in gray.

As soon as the honeymooners return from the African wilds, they will settle on the Connecticut chicken farm where Phil tried to find peace with Mrs. Plant No. 2, the former Mrs. Dunham. She divorced him, after demanding variable alimony in sums ranging from $500,000 to $1,500,000, charging that he was cruel to her, intimate with other women and had plotted to do away with her.

MARJORIE KING.

He was reported to have settled for $173,000, which added to the $1,000,000 he supposedly paid Constance Bennett and $850,000 paid out in breach of promise and other damage suits, reckons up to a fair bill for romance.

$14,258,235 FUND IS BEING PAID OUT BY ATLANTA FIRMS

Holiday Dividends Announced by Total of 24 Business Firms; Coca-Cola Payment Largest.

Atlanta's holiday funds were expected to be augmented by approximately $14,258,235 in dividends of 24 business firms to be paid during the first of January, according to a compilation made yesterday by Courts & Company, investment brokers.

This amount, together with the more than $450,000 released by the First National Bank, Citizens & Southern Bank, Trust Company of Georgia and the Fulton National Bank, augurs a bountiful supply of ready cash during the holidays.

Impetus was given the "golden stream" yesterday by the Coca-Cola Company, which paid a dividend of $19,977,725. This includes 3,991,900 shares of common stock at the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, with an extra $2 a share dividend, making a total of $19,977,725, and a quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share on 800,000 shares of Coca-Cola "A" totaling an additional $900,000.

The second largest amount, $783,000 in dividends, will be paid by Georgia Power Company, to $783,000.

The Trust Company of Georgia was third in dividends with a total of $260,000 payable on 20,000 shares, this amount including the regular $3 a share dividend and an extra $10 dividend. This will be paid January 3.

The First National Bank declared dividends totaling $243,000 on 540,000 shares of stock, to be paid January 3, while $200,000 will be paid by the Bibb Manufacturing Company January 1 as its quarterly dividend on 200,000 shares of common stock.

Other corporations declaring dividends, the amount and date payable, follows:

Citizens and Southern National Bank, $150,000, January 3.

Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast, $120,507.50, January 3.

President of $87,000,000 Drug Firm Is Identified As Convicted Swindler in the 'Human Hair' Fraud

Fingerprints and Those of Notorious Philip Musica Declared Identical.

was involved in the "human hair" case. The directory lists Costa as having married Carol Jenkins Schieffelin, of Jamaica, N. Y., in 1921, the year after Philip Musica disappeared.

Finger Prints Obtained. First hints that Costa might be Musica came after federal investigators, working on the McKesson & Robbins case in which vast shipments of drug supplies were found to be "fictitious," disclosed the resemblance between that and the Musica "human hair" case.

Musica's fingerprints were obtained by Federal Bureau of Investigation men and Costa's fingerprints were brought here from his home in Fairfield, Conn. Donovan said they were examined and proved to be "the same."

Earlier today Costa, George S. Dietrich, assistant treasurer of McKesson & Robbins, and George Vernard, New York representative for the W. W. Smith Company, a concern through which the vanished assets of the drug company were believed to have passed, were indicted by a federal grand jury.

The three men, all now under arrest, were accused of a conspiracy to violate the securities and exchange act and George P. Noonan, acting United States attorney for New York, said this was "only the beginning of the investigation."

Meanwhile it was learned in Washington that the almost unbelievable ramifications of the drug fraud case might extend to a plot to export arms, in cases marked "milk of magnesia," to countries now under the arms ban of the American neutrality act.

The only countries thus involved are the belligerents in the recent Gran Chaco war—Bolivia and Paraguay—and the government and insurgent forces of the Spanish civil war.

Assistant Attorney General Brien McMahon said in Washington that the Justice Department had uncovered information which indicated that a "conspiracy to export arms" was involved in the McKesson & Robbins inquiry.

"Leads have been uncovered which are now being run down, which indicate that Costa has been involved in a conspiracy to ship arms and ammunition to belligerent nations barred from receiving arms and ammunition under the neutrality act," McMahon said.

The linking of Costa with the old Musica "human hair" case—a sensation of the pre-war decade—came like a thunderbolt in the already complicated investigation, which resulted in suspending McKesson & Robbins securities from New York Stock Exchange trading.

Philip Musica, then a 21-year-old financial genius, was associated with his father, Antonio, and two brothers, Arthur and George, in various importing and exporting businesses, among them the United States Hair Company.

Antonio Musica was well-known and well-liked in financial circles, and it was a stunning surprise to New York bankers when the Burns agency announced on March 13, 1913, that the Musicas—father and sons—were missing from their Brooklyn home and that the Burns agency had been engaged

Dietrich (right), assistant treasurer, shown at Costa's home in Fairfield, Conn., as they surrendered to government agents on charges of violating the federal securities and exchange act. Musica Complained Of New Orleans Food

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Police remembered the Musicas tonight largely through the volume of their complaints 15 years ago about prison food.

Although they had almost $80,000 when arrested, veteran officers recalled, they were allowed to eat only the regular fare of other prisoners.

Stephen D'Amico, a rich fruit vendor, offered to post bond for them and they tartly refused.

According to the New Orleans Item of March 19, 1913, the Musica family was traveling as W. D. Weeks and wife; Miss Louise Martin, R. D. Weeks, E. Martin Sr. and F. Martin Jr., all of Chicago.

by the American Bankers Association to find them.

Three days later two New York detectives, Bernard Flood and Edmund Leigh, boarded the United Fruit Company liner. Here they were ready to steam from New Orleans for Colon, and arrested the Musicas.

A daughter, Louisa Musica, ran to the rail fumbling with something in her clothes. She was pulled back and a package of currency containing $18,000 spilled to the deck. The pockets of the three sons were searched and gave up $80,000.

As they were being taken to police headquarters in New Orleans, the father broke away, snatching a pistol from Philip's pocket and tried to shoot himself, but Philip stopped him.

After they were brought back to New York, the fantastic story of their operations trickled out. Philip was the "master mind" of the scheme, which was exploded when a cargo of "human hair," valued at $300,000, was found to contain nothing but worthless rubbish.

Charles E. Rushmore, a lawyer for the Bank of Manhattan Company, was credited with the exposure. He got an order to examine the cargo, brought in on the Fabre Line, and found it was worthless.

"The Musicas in the meantime suspected exposure," Rushmore later explained, "and all of the family disappeared."

After they were brought back from New Orleans, they were arraigned on April 11, 1913, and pleaded not guilty. They were under four indictments charging grand larceny. Two months later Philip Musica pleaded guilty, admitting he defrauded the banking firm of J. and W. Seligman of $16,000.

For three years the case dragged on without a sentence, and young Musica was in daily conference with the district attorney's staff, going over the elaborate system of fraud he and his father and brothers had devised.

On March 21, 1916, he was given a suspended sentence and discharged.

Four years later—on April 27, 1920—Philip Musica appeared in court on a charge of perjury in connection with the Washington Market murder case.

Associated Press Photos. A brokerage account of Mrs. F. Donald Costa, wife of the president of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., was impounded in the investigation into the drug firm's apparent loss of $18,000,000 in listed assets.

The case involved the shooting of Barnett Baff, a poultryman, during a "price war," and after several months of fiddling around with the case, Musica was discharged. He dropped out of sight and did not reappear until Inspector Donovan announced that he and Costa were the same person.

Even earlier than the "human hair" case, Philip Musica and his mercurial family were involved in a fraud case, in which they were alleged to have divided the duty on under-valued merchandise with corrupt customs inspectors.

At the trial in September, 1909, of young Musica, his brothers and father, Philip took the blame for the entire transaction and his father and brothers were acquitted. Philip went to Elmira, N. Y., penitentiary for a year and was fined $5,000.

Subsequently he was pardoned by President William Howard Taft—federal prisoners in that day were frequently sent to state penitentiaries—and returned to New York to resume business until the "human hair" case cropped up.

While the federal grand jury was acting today on the Costa indictments, other investigating agencies were pursuing their inquiry into the affairs of McKesson & Robbins along several avenues.

The Securities and Exchange Commission, seeking to determine the extent of operations in which bills of sale and stock records were "kited" through imaginary warehouses, disclosed that they had located a printing plant which provided stationery for seven supposedly fictitious firms involved in the McKesson & Robbins case.

Several actual English firms, listed on the McKesson & Robbins books, were found to have done no business with the drug concern.

The Chronology Of Philip Musica

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The chronology of Philip Musica, alias F. Donald Costa, as told by police and other official records:

Philip Musica
Oct. 29, 1909—Convicted in federal court of customs duty fraud; fined $5,000 and sentenced to one year in prison; pardoned by President Taft.

Feb. 19, 1913—Arrested on charges of grand larceny; changed plea of innocent to guilty; aided district attorney clean up case while prisoner in Tombs for three years; discharged with suspended sentence March 28, 1916.

April 27, 1920—Arrested on charge of perjury, released under bail; discharged later. Exit Musica, enter:

F. Donald Costa
Dec. 6, 1932—Application for receivership for McKesson & Robbins, Inc., headed by Costa, filed by stockholder in Hartford, Conn., the complaint alleging waste and mismanagement and false items in company's accounts "in excess of $10,000,000;" trading of McKesson and Robbins stock suspended on the New York stock exchange.

Dec. 7, J. F. Thompson, treasurer and director, and W. L. Cummings, director, of McKesson & Robbins, appeared before a stock exchange committee at committee's request to discuss receivership proceedings.

Dec. 8, On the drug company's own petition, Federal Judge James J. Thompson, stock exchange committee, said at December 7 conference that the company's affairs were "so darned fantastic we still cannot believe them;" Cummings said the crude drug department, directed personally by Costa, "may be just a hollow balloon;" Thompson said some supposed warehouses for crude drugs were "just plain mailing addresses."

Investigations Begin.
Dec. 9, Investigations of company begun by state attorney general, Securities and Exchange Commission, New York district attorney's office and federal authorities.

Dec. 10—State supreme court order tied up $100,000 brokerage account of Mrs. Carol E. Costa, wife of McKesson & Robbins president; Albert R. Ritts, accountant, said at state attorney general's inquiry that of the supposed $87,000,000 in the drug company's assets, $10,000,000 in crude drugs inventory and $8,000,000 in accounts receivable might be non-existent.

Dec. 12—McKesson & Robbins board called on Costa and George E. Dietrich, assistant treasurer and assistant vice president, to resign; an assistant attorney general advised from Montreal that two warehouses in which crude drugs supposedly were stored were non-existent.

Dec. 13—United States Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter ordered arrest of Costa, Dietrich and George Vernard, Montreal representative of W. W. Smith & Co., English agent for the drug firm, on warrants alleging violation of securities act; federal grand jury began inquiry, calling Thompson as first witness.

Past Probod.
Dec. 14—Costa and Dietrich arrested in Fairfield, Conn., home of Costa, and held in $5,000 bail each; Assistant State Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall said he had "substantial reason to believe" Costa "is a man of different identity and known to this office" and confirmed that detectives were investigating his past; United States attorney's office subpoenaed 50 Wall Street brokers and officers of the company.

Dec. 15—Federal grand jury indicted Costa, Dietrich and Vernard on charges of conspiracy and filing false statements with stock exchange; Assistant United States Attorney General Brien McMahon announced in Washington that Justice Department was investigating leads indicating Costa "had engaged in shipping arms and munitions to belligerent countries in cases labeled 'milk of magnesia'" and New York police announced that fingerprints showed F. Donald Costa and Philip Musica were one man.

NAVY WILL NAME CRUISER 'ATLANTA'

These smaller vessels can render invaluable service as scouting vessels to patrol shipping lanes, being considerably superior to slower and heavier vessels.

Details Kept Secret.
Officials declined to reveal details of armament, but indicated they would be little, if any, inferior to the heavier light cruisers in their defensive power. Naval tactics, it was pointed out, never contemplate engagement of an enemy force by cruisers alone, but only as support for heavier combatant ships.

The ships advertised for yesterday, designated as light cruisers Nos. 51 and 52, were authorized under the Vinson-Trammell act of 1934 and appropriated for in the naval appropriation act of 1935. The two others to be assigned to navy yards were provided for under the billion-dollar expansion act and appropriated for in a deficiency appropriation.

Former Central of Georgia Head Is Promoted

Lawrence A. Downs (right) well known to railroad men and former president of the Central of Georgia Railroad, was named chairman of the board of the Illinois Central, at Chicago, stepping up from the presidency of that road. His successor as president is J. L. Beven (left), 52, who started work with the line when he was 12.

Lawrence Downs Wins Promotion; He's Now Chairman of I. C. Board

Prominent Former President of Central of Georgia Was Widely Known and Popular Executive in Atlanta and Georgia Railway Circles.

A former president of the Central of Georgia railroad—Lawrence A. Downs—is now chairman of the board of the Illinois Central, it was disclosed last night in announcement at Chicago of his elevation from the presidency of the I. C.

Downs is remembered well by Central of Georgia men in Atlanta and the state. Employees recall him as "the kind of executive a man could always talk to."

The new chairman of the I. C. board served as president of the Central of Georgia from 1918 to 1926. In 1924, he began the road's program of promoting and developing the state's natural resources along rights of way.

During his period with the Central of Georgia, Downs often visited Atlanta, coming here from his headquarters in Savannah. He was a "good fellow" to all who knew him, and noted for his vitality and ability to handle men.

He was born in Greencastle, Ind. 66 years ago. He was a star football player at Purdue University in undergraduate days. His record in Georgia—the I. C.'s tough testing ground—gained him presidency of the I. C. in 1926.

Another former president of the Central of Georgia, James J. Pelley, is another well-known-to-Georgians railroad man who went far in the transportation business. Pelley served as president of the Central of Georgia, then went to the I. C., and also served as a top executive with the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

He is president of the Association of American Railroads, and a "news name" through prominence as spokesman for railroads in many Washington conferences aimed at straightening out labor and government "wrinkles" in transportation.

J. J. Beven, 52, son of a railroad, and an employee of the I. C. since he was 12 years old, succeeded Downs as president.

25-MILLION CREDIT IS GRANTED CHINA
U. S. Funds Will Be Repaid Through Tung Oil Imports.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The United States lent war-battered China a helping hand today when the Export-Import Bank granted credits of $25,000,000 to finance Chinese-American trade.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, said the funds will be used in connection with the exportation of American agricultural and manufactured products to China and the importation of wool oil, commonly called tung oil, from China.

K. P. Chen, who described himself as a representative of the finance ministry of China, headed a mission which conducted the successful negotiations.

Following Jones' announcement, Chen went to the treasury to thank Secretary Morgenthau for the "very sympathetic" treatment accorded the mission.

'ANCIENT VENUS' HOAX IS REVEALED

Cremonse, a 31-year-old Italian sculptor living near Saint Etienne. He paid his entrance fee to see the Venus, listened to the experts' opinions, and calmly announced that he had made the statue and buried it himself.

Resultant Howl.
The resultant howl was heard around the European art world. It tickled the average Frenchman, who like nothing better than a chance to laugh at experts fooled at their own game.

"Sure it's mine," said Cremonse when the experts called his claim "absurd." "I buried it there in 1936."

"Why? Well, nobody paid any attention to my work and I think it's a lot better than many things in museums. So I thought that if somebody dug up my Venus in a place where traces of the Roman occupation had been found..."

"But," said the experts, "the Venus De Brizet is of Italian marble from Carara."

"I know," said Cremonse, "and it cost me plenty to buy the stone and have it shipped here."

To clinch his argument the sculptor invited everyone to come to his workshop. There he produced a marble nose, an arm, and legs—the very parts missing from the Venus De Brizet.

"I broke them of myself before I buried it," he explained. "It's rare to find an old statue in perfect condition and I thought the experts might suspect something."

Gonon, the peasant, is inclined to side with the sculptor and not with the experts. Nevertheless, he has refused to let Cremonse fit his pieces to the battered marble lady. His eye is on the tourist trade, which has been good since the fight started.

Cremonse is happy about it all. He has a few new commissions and hopes to get more.

The experts, muttering threats of revenge, are still looking for proof that they're right and Cremonse is a fraud.

OUTLOOK FOR PEACE IS SCANT -- KENNEDY

'We Must Stay Out of It' If War Comes, Says Ambassador.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to England, said today he was "not particularly optimistic about the outlook for peace in Europe—but I don't think that's any reason for not trying."

Returning on the liner Queen Mary for a two-month visit, Kennedy said of the four-power peace pact at Munich:

"It is difficult to predict the ultimate outcome of it. More than ever, however, I am of the opinion that if war comes, we must stay out of it."

There were two alternatives to the Munich agreement. One was economic chaos; the other war. If it is possible to do anything better than war, there is every justification for trying."

The ambassador said he was "definitely" in favor of President Roosevelt's projected plans for a larger army, navy and air force.

"And I want to say I think the president is handling the present international situation with a skill that everyone admires," he said.

REAL ESTATE BOARD IS HOST AT DINNER

W. J. Hogan Jr. Re-elected President at Annual Banquet.

More than 200 persons last night attended the annual banquet and election-meeting of the Atlanta Real Estate Board held in the Atlanta Athletic Club.

W. J. Hogan Jr. was re-elected president. Other officers chosen included Forrest Adair Jr., Morris Ewing and J. M. Garner, vice presidents; Ed M. Chapman Sr., treasurer, and Sharpe B. Wall, secretary.

Directors elected for three-year terms were A. B. Cates, J. M. Garner and Frank C. Owen. Jack Adair was elected a director for a one-year term.

The organization went on record as approving action of the County Commissioners' Association in efforts to abolish the state ad valorem tax on real estate. Reports of committee disclosed a splendid year for the board.

RUSSELL HARGRAVE
DIES AT AGE OF 27

Employee of Georgia Power Company Succumbs in Thomassville.

Andrew Russell Hargrave, 27, employed in the advertising department of the Georgia Power Company, died early yesterday morning at his home in Thomassville. He had been ill since October and was recently taken to Thomassville from a private hospital here.

Mr. Hargrave, who was the son of W. D. Hargrave, business manager of the Thomassville Times Enterprise, joined the advertising department of the power company April 25, 1937, coming to this city from Cartersville, Ga., where he was editor of the Bartow Herald.

A native of Thomassville, he was graduated from the University of Georgia with a B. A. degree in journalism in 1934. While at college he was editor of the Red and Black, a campus publication.

Beside the Bartow Herald, Mr. Hargrave did editorial and advertising work with the Athens Times, the Tri-County News, Americus, Ga., the Memphis (Tenn.) Press-Scimitar and the Atlanta bureau of the United Press. He also had been engaged in publicity work in Anderson, S. C.

Mr. Hargrave was commissioned a second lieutenant in the reserve corps and promoted to first lieutenant last year.

Funeral service will be held from the residence of his parents at Thomassville at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(P)—Members of the senate profit-sharing committee undertook a double-barreled attack on the nation's unemployment problem today.

At their direction, committee attaches began drafting a formula of profit-sharing designed to stabilize employment and guarantee old-age retirement funds for workers in the nation's largest industries.

At the same time, Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, a committee member, disclosed he would try to substitute incentive taxation for government spending intended to "prime the business pump." His idea was that business itself should be encouraged to expand its plants, and thus increase employment by granting tax deductions to firms which do so.

The committee's profit-sharing formula, as outlined by Donald Despain, committee counsel, will propose joint contributions by employees and employers to an irrevocable trust fund to be set up by each participating firm.

This trust fund would be used to pay retirement benefits to all workers who contributed by an agreement between employees and employers. The interest on a previous year's joint contributions could be used in an emergency period of unemployment, to bolster pay rolls.

INCREASED PENSION TAXES OPPOSED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(P)—A demand that congress cancel scheduled increases in old age pension taxes was made today by Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan.

The increases, he argued, would needlessly take $40,000,000,000 "out of America's pay envelope between now and 1980."

Vandenberg expressed general approval of a proposal, reported to have been made by the social security advisory council, that the government bear a one-third share of the ultimate pension cost out of its general funds. The senator said the government would have to pay at least one third, anyway, in the form of interest on the huge reserve, which is to be invested in government securities.

FRANCO RESTORES ALFONSO'S RIGHTS

Former Monarch To Regain
All Personal Properties in Spain.

BURGOS, Spain, Dec. 15.—(P)—The insurgent government tonight restored full citizenship rights to former King Alfonso of Spain.

The decree was adopted at a council of ministers over which Generalissimo Francisco Franco presided.

(Last year it was reported that Franco might agree to put Alfonso's youngest son, Prince Juan, on the Spanish throne, and that Alfonso, who left the throne on April 14, 1931, would not object.)

Francisco personally read the law before the council, declaring null and void a decree approved by the Spanish courts in November, 1931, stripping the former King of his rights as a citizen of Spain.

The law not only restores Alfonso's full legal rights, but also restores to him all his personal estates and properties in Spain.

Alfonso left the country on April 14, 1931, after proclamation of the republic, and since has lived principally in Italy.

Meanwhile, today two insurgent attacks in northeastern and southwestern Spain apparently were cut short without developing into the long-awaited general offensive against government forces.

Private insurgent sources insisted the general offensive was imminent and said today's activity formed part of a series of assaults to test government lines.

John O. Spaulding, former Memphis stock broker, now serving a 15-year term in the federal penitentiary here on mail fraud charges, told Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood yesterday that the jury that convicted him was furnished with whisky during his trial.

Spaulding, who filed a habeas corpus petition several weeks ago for release, stated in that Federal Judge John Martin, of Memphis, told the attorneys in the case to hurry up the proceedings, as "we want to get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas."

Assistant United States Attorney H. H. Tysinger said yesterday that the general offensive was imminent and said today's activity formed part of a series of assaults to test government lines.

Spaulding raised had been passed on and rejected by the sixth circuit court of appeals and the supreme court.

My Day: Workshop Takes Care Of Cured Lung Patients

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—The weather was indeed kind to me yesterday. I don't know what I should have done if I had not been able to fly, but as it was, I actually found myself at the airport with 10 minutes to spare. I had lunch at the Men's City Club, in New York city, and the chairman had asked me to give briefly some of my impressions of the country as a whole. That seemed to me such a tall order, that I decided to confine myself to one or two stories from different parts of the country, and then answer questions.

This meeting, as well as the meeting run by Mr. James McDonald on Monday evening at the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Science, proved the fact that properly trained audiences, under properly trained chairmen, can carry on a most satisfactory "question and answer period." I like this, because I feel that my audience is actually having the subjects which interest them discussed. The only drawback to this period is that before their illness, there is a small home doing similar work in Boston, and I imagine there are others in different parts of the world. While this work is done under the auspices of a Jewish committee, it accepts patients on a non-sectarian basis and I feel that many people will be interested in seeing the results which have been accomplished.

Lady Lindsay brought Captain Anthony Eden and Mrs. Eden to tea with us yesterday afternoon. He has all the charm of an Englishman of culture and diplomatic experience. She is pretty and attractive, and very well suited to the difficult position of the wife of a public official.

The first official entertainment of the season took place last night, the dinner given for the members of the cabinet. Miss Stell Andersen played the new piano, Mr. Mark Harrell sang and Miss Chaney and Mr. Fox danced. It was a delightful program and one which everybody seemed to enjoy.

The press spent an hour with me this morning and there were a number of appointments, including a photograph taken of a group selling me one of the tuberculosis Christmas seals. I am about to go down to the Navy Yard and I will tell you about that tomorrow. (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

"There Should Be a Law" Against In-Law Imposition

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Since my father died two years ago, leaving no insurance, my mother and two sisters have been living with us. We were heavily obligated before they came and since then we have steadily gone deeper and deeper in debt. My husband is sick of the whole family, me included, and says he simply can't stand it any longer. I don't blame him; yet what can I do? One sister works part time but doesn't help as much as she should. My husband won't hear of my working and there I am. I am convinced that the in-laws worry him more than the debts, largely because they aren't doing their part in trying to help us make the grade. Ours is just not the home it once was and we wonder if you can help us.

Answer: There's not one man in a million that would stand for what you are putting on your husband and there's only one thing for you to do: get your family out. Now I know that's going to be a difficult proposition for you and all concerned. But if you let things go on as they are now going there won't be a home for any of you.

First, you should tell your mother and your sisters that your impulse and your plan was to have them come and live with you—which they know. But that your husband cannot meet the obligations of the big family, that he is restless and unhappy as a consequence of their being in your home. Tell them that they must begin at once to make other plans.

Dormant Bid Threatens Revival

By Harold Sharpsteen.

This is the tenth of a special series of articles covering the complete range of opening suit bids.

NEW BID PROMISED.

With a positive set-up suit forming the basis of all future opening three-bids in the Culbertson system, by necessity, the year of 1939 promises to mark the sudden revival of a long dormant bid in contract bridge. . . an opening bid of four in a minor suit.

Few bridge players can remember when last a partner opened the bidding at four clubs or four diamonds. Few responders would know off-hand, the correct reply to such an opening.

NO SET-UP SUIT.

Hands, that in 1939 may be opened immediately at the level of four, in the last decade have either been opened at three, at five, or have been passed out as original bids.

The 1939 Culbertson three-bid unreservedly calls for a set-up suit. . . a suit at least six long, containing at least 100 honors if it be a major suit, and a positively solid suit for an opening three minor suit bid. Outside strength is of little consequence, but the set-up feature must always be present.

UNFIT FOR NOTRUMP.

So what to do with long suits, lacking four or five top honors may be solved by opening four-bids, as when holding:

S-9; H-Q J 3; D-3; C-A Q J 8 7 6 5 2
S-9; H-6 4; D-Q 2; C-K Q 10 8 6 5 3
S-A 4 3; H-9; D-8 4; C-A J 10 8 6 5 3
S-1; H-7; D-Q J 10 3; C-K J 10 7 5 4 3 2.

Obviously, an opening minor suit bid of four signifies a hand unfit for notrump and is employed as a pure shut-out attempt. Partner has a right to expect the hand to produce about eight winners, all of which are more likely in the trump suit.

WHEN COURAGE WANES.

Opening game-bids in minor suits, as a rule, promise about nine winners and very freakish distribution, as:

S-9; H-3; D-A J 8 7 6 5 4 3 2; C-K Q
S-5; H-6 3; D-4; C-K Q 10 8 7 6 5 4 3
Partners should be cautious about raising either minor suit opening of four or five, lacking at least three winners but vulnerable openers may resort to four minor suits, lacking sufficient courage or trump length.

Cards Interpret True Spirit of Xmas

By Elizabeth McRae Boykin.

I'm keeping my fingers crossed, hoping I'll get sheaves and sheaves of Christmas cards from everybody I know. I can't be bothered with people who snub the idea of cards—in lots of ways cards interpret more truly the spirit of Christmas than do presents. They are a handclasp across miles or years, a remembrance that is beautiful and gay but doesn't have intrinsic value. Mainly there's no pall of obligation in return for a card as there is too often with a gift. And I like the idea that cards have no purpose in life other than to bring good wishes.

Please Send Me One!

Cards are getting handsomer every year. I love the glittering ones best. . . the saucy ones are fun. . . the more dignified, tastefully lovely. . . the illuminated music bars are charming. But no matter how grand the "boughten" cards are, I warm more to the home-made ones that reflect the family's individuality. So one Christmas at least try your hand at making your own greetings, and please send me one! I collect hand-made cards.

The books do say that the first Christmas cards appeared in London in 1846, and were made by an artist named Joseph Cundall. The design was lithographed, then hand-colored, and the whole business was about the size of a lady's visiting card. The books go on to say that the custom of sending greeting cards didn't become common till about 1860.

With a Suede Sprig.

It must be true if the books say so. But just the same in my small world Christmas cards didn't become a real habit till along about 1915, and I'll never forget the first greeting card my family sent out, engraved very properly but brightened with a sprig of holly. Before then there were Christmas post cards but no one sent them out in any numbers.

Who can tell me more about the custom of sending Christmas cards in America? I'd love to see some of the old ones and find out whether other sections of the country had the habit before it came to our pleasant sleepy little town.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Boykin, care The Atlanta Constitution, for her new bulletin, "Make Your Own Christmas Decorations."

Rosemary Lane, knowing that make-up must blend with wardrobe these days, is trying out one of the new fuchsia shades.

More Gift Suggestions In Cosmetics and Perfumes

By Lillian Mae.

There is a new lipstick that is color-perfect—color-perfect certainly, for this season when cosmetics must blend with wardrobe colors. And though you and I might both use "heliotrope"—one of the lovely fuchsia shades, this color would look different on each of us. That's what is so remarkable about the "color-perfect" business. It really harmonizes with each individual type of skin coloring.

And though I don't know what the ingredients are, the result is one of the smoothest, most satiny I've ever used. There is no feeling of a cake-y lipstick, but instead a perfectly velvety feeling and a look—even after many hours—of glamor and gleaming youth. First attracted to it on the lips of the manager of a beauty salon, I tried it for myself and was delighted. It comes in such a smart ivory, black and gold case that it is ideal as a gift—particularly in these days when it is absolutely necessary to have several lipsticks, in several different shades. The price is astonishingly low for such a grand item.

2. How about a personalized vanity? I've found the cutest thing! It comes in different colors of enamel, and you may have the name and address of the person to whom you are giving it, written in address form on the top—and a postmarked stamp will also be baked on so that this unique trick will look just like a letter when it is taken from its box. This vanity comes in either single or double form.

3. When giving perfume, my warning is always to give one that suits the personality of the person to whom it is given. There is one—a new one—that very definitely translates the wearer into fragrance. It is rich and vivid—much like the personality of the American woman of today. With a decidedly romantic note, it becomes an enchanting accent to one's own personal charm, enveloping her in an aura of fragrance.

4. Every woman is always delighted to receive one of the beautiful and useful traveling cases we use on every hand now. There is one in which, for sheer eye appeal, is outstanding, and for practical use just can't be improved upon. It comes in alligator leather covering, brown or black, with washable fabric lining in delicate pinkish beige.

A removable tray contains an even dozen jars and bottles with brushed brass cap containing the very finest of all the necessary facial and make-up preparations—

You'll Find Many Uses for These Crocheted Medallions

Right from the start you'll be fascinated with this easy medallion that forms so many lovely accessories in string or finer cotton. After the first one is memorized, they'll tumble from your crochet hook in quick succession until you've enough to form this lovely cloth—or a spread, scarf or pillow. Begin now! Pattern 6172 contains instructions for making the medallion; an illustration of it and of stitches; photograph of the medallion; materials needed.

Poems You Knew and Loved Long Ago

Between the dark and the daylight,
When the night is beginning to lower,
Comes a pause in the day's occupations,
That is known as The Children's Hour.

Sister, 'Can You Spare Ten Minutes' For Exercise That'll Make You Over?

By Ida Jean Kain.

An Englishman wrote to the editor of a New York paper. . . "The American woman is a lively and amusing companion with a radiant personality and refreshing sense of humor—beautiful at 19, captivating at 28, and fascinating at 39."

Does he mean it? Such high praise from an Englishman makes us realize what a long way the American woman has come since those carefree flapper days. She has grown up without settling down and the result is charm of face and figure that defies the years.

That glowing description fits any number of our famous women—Mrs. Joseph Kennedy, Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, Gloria Swanson, Lynne Fontanne, Billie Burke—or perhaps he was thinking of the Duchess of Windsor. All are beautiful, but the amazing thing is that they are lovelier today than they were two decades ago, and even more amazing that this is true of a high percentage of American women. . . not just a handicapped group.

Since these women are so much in the limelight, however, it is more interesting to try to account for their increased aura of beauty. Being individualists, they each have their own ways of taking care of their looks, but they all enjoy some form of outdoor activity, appreciate the beauty value of repose, and are more or less diet conscious. And there you have the explanation in a nutshell! But let's take them one by one. . .

Looking at Billie Burke today it is almost inconceivable that it was 25 years ago that she first had Broadway at her feet. She exercises twice daily. How else could she keep that slim figure?

Then there's Irene Castle McLaughlin, most famous of them all for her figure. She has always had more than her share of exercise through her dancing and today her figure is as good as it was 20 years ago. She is slim and willowy with a 24-inch waistline that an 18-year-old might envy. Gloria Swanson is convinced that relaxation is the best antidote for wrinkles, and it certainly seems to work for her. We do know that tension ages women rapidly.

Mrs. Kennedy, wife of the ambassador to England, is the mother of nine children, yet her figure is as slim and she is as pert looking as one of her daughters. Her exercise standby is golf. Lynne Fontanne likes gardening because it affords exercise and perfect relaxation. The Duchess of Windsor swims, skis, hikes and golfs.

Davis and Flynn May Be 'Shot' In England

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 15.—"Elizabeth and Essex," in which Bette Davis and Errol Flynn are starred, will probably be made in England, where Warner Brothers have a well-equipped studio. Additions to the cast of the picture, which, by the way, will be in technicolor—Claude Rains as the Earl of Warwick, Ian Hunter as Sir Walter Raleigh, and Olivia De Havilland as Lady Essex, the female who caused the Virgin Queen such pangs of jealousy.

"The Flying Irishman," starring Douglas Corrigan, will be "canned" a couple of days before Christmas and will reach the public the beginning of next year. Two oldtimers have joined the cast—Neil Hamilton, who has been making pictures in England, and Dorothy Peterson, who will play Corrigan's mother.

Martha Raye and Bob Hope have the leads in the remake of "The Cat and the Canary." The play has been made into a picture in 1927. Edward Arnold joined Nelson Eddy and Victor McLaglen in "Song of the West." . . . Marjorie Weaver, who has been wondering what has happened to her career, gets a new contract from Twentieth Century-Fox and plays the lead in "Shooting High." "B." . . . Carole Lombard hopes to make $200,000 in her new deal to star for RKO-Radio in "Memory of Love." She gets $100,000 down, and a handsome percentage, and one of the gold and white cherubs holds the rouge contained in place. The box has a golden base.

Called by Any Other Name It Still Carries 'Sniffles'

By Dr. William Brady.

Ever since I launched my one-man campaign to stop intelligent, well-meaning but thoughtless people from calling indispositions, passing discomforts or illnesses "cold" and persuade them to call it "cri" until the nature of the trouble becomes manifest, I have had to endure a good deal of smart-cracking by the other sort of people. The burden of their rhetorical questions or arguments is, "What difference does it make what you call it? A cold is by any other name just as bad."

Cri (kree) is any common respiratory infection. It is at least as significant and as honest a name as any other, for the indisposition or ailment, until you or your doctor can find out just what it is the matter. Meanwhile innocent persons who may come within your range have fair warning, so if the trouble proves to have been diphtheria, measles, infantile paralysis, meningitis, influenza, septic sore throat or scarlet fever, at least they can't say you deliberately infected them.

On the other hand, if you disarm or attempt to disarm all who come within your range, by pretending your trouble is "just a cold," and a few days later many of your victims are down with a serious illness contracted from you, you're a pretty mean specimen, aren't you? Don't answer. I'll tell the world you are.

Proprietors or executives of business, schools, shopping centers, practicing physicians and their office assistants, dentists and their technicians or office assistants, teachers, students, chefs and waiters, and numerous other citizens

Their programs do not vary greatly from those of the average woman. But most of them began early—some when they were children—to get enough daily exercise, eat sensibly, and put aside time for relaxation, and those things, which are habits with them now, are the fundamentals of beauty. Applied day by day, they make any woman lovelier.

apparently believe they are exempt from living the golden rule of hygiene and that they may infect people with whatever they happen to have with impunity. At least such offenders still have the cheek to remain at work and expose people indiscriminately to respiratory infection without fear of being sued for damages or even censured for criminal conduct.

The vital thing which many educated people do not know is that this moisture spray, given off in coughing and sneezing and effectively stopped if the individual holds hand or handkerchief over nose and mouth when he has to cough or sneeze, is likewise given off in ordinary conversation and not even guarded against, as a rule, for the very reason that people do not know the facts about it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Tomatoes.
Is there any harm in eating a large amount of tomatoes every day or nearly every day? Is there an acid in tomatoes that causes rheumatism, acidosis or something? (G. L. B.)

Answer—No. Hindhede studied men whose diet consisted exclusively of 11 pounds of tomatoes, about 1 1/2 pounds of Graham bread and 3 1/2 ounces of margarine daily. He found no evidence of any undesirable effect. Except in occasional instances of allergy, the liberal use of fresh or canned tomato or tomato juice in the diet is healthful. For one thing it supplies vitamin C, in which the diet in the winter months is likely to be poor.

Individuality in Barbara Bell Frocks

Here's a smart design to be hailed with cheers of joy from all of you who wear 34 to 48 sizes and yet like spirited, youthful styles, however simple. That clever yoke, extended out over the shrugged-shoulder sleeves, the point at the collarless closing, and the slightly full hemline—all collaborate to give this dress unusual charm and individuality. With large armholes and a darted waistline, this design is thoroughly comfortable to work about the house in, if you make it up in percale, gingham or calico. But also, it's so finished-looking, so slim and trim in every way, that you'll enjoy a wool crepe or flannel version for run-about.

It's a diagram design—you can finish it in a few hours. The minute you slip it on, and see how comfortable and becoming it is, you'll repeat it, in various fabrics, many times.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1380-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4 3/8 yards of 35-inch material. Price of pattern 15 cents. Do not send stamps. Send 15c for the Barbara Bell fall and winter fashion pattern book. Popular Couple Honored On Twenty-Fourth Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Slicer Given Surprise Party by Close Friends

By Sally Forth.

IMAGINE the surprise of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Slicer when 25 close friends arrived at their home on Muscogee avenue last evening at 6:30 o'clock to extend congratulations to the beloved couple, upon their twenty-fourth wedding anniversary.

Each guest bore a dish laden with food fit for a king and queen, and soon Mrs. Slicer and the feminine guests were setting the table for the informal and surprise supper. In the meantime, masculine members of the group and Mr. Slicer prepared iced drinks, which were later drunk to the health of Sarahbelle and Sam Slicer, as they are affectionately called by their friends.

The surprise party was planned by members of the Cornelia Moore Auxiliary, of which Mrs. Slicer is a valuable member. The auxiliary, as you know, is composed of a group of socially prominent Atlantans who have been lifelong friends, and was organized when its members were counted among this city's most popular belles.

Mrs. Slicer and Mrs. Floyd McRae Jr., are the only two members who are not natives of this city ever to be invited to join the auxiliary. The former came to Atlanta for residence immediately after her marriage to Mr. Slicer, which was an important event of December 15, 1914, in Montgomery, Ala., where the family of the bride of that day has lived for generations. Mrs. Slicer is the former Sarahbelle Bandy, daughter of Mr. Harry Bandy and the late Mr. Bandy, whose families are numbered among Alabama's most prominent pioneers.

Mr. and Mrs. Slicer are beloved by a wide circle of friends as are their sons, Harry and Sam Jr. Mrs. Slicer is prominently identified with art circles as she is a talented artist, and takes an active part in all projects furthering the love for art.

The gala surprise party closed with Hugh Hodgson playing the wedding march amid expressions of "Many happy returns of the day."

The group included Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McRae, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tompkins, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gregg, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ragan, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hodgson, Mr. and Mrs. F. Ker McCarty, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Troutman, Dr. and Mrs. Glenville Giddings, Mesdames Walter Colquitt, Ewell Gay, Henry Newman and Isoline Campbell McKenna.

AFTER a month's sojourn in New York where she was lavishly entertained at the guest of her brother and sister, Rear Admiral Clark Howell Woodward and Mrs. Woodward, Mrs. Roscoe Hearn returned yesterday. Among numerous social functions the Atlantan attended while in the east was the elaborate reception at which the Woodwards were hosts on their annual "day at home."

Mrs. Hearn's brother, you know, is in command of the New York district of Uncle Sam's navy and he and Mrs. Woodward reside in a handsome and historic home at Brooklyn Navy Yard. The four-story house, which was built in 1805, is one of the most noted in that section. Plans for the house were drawn by Bullfinch, the renowned architect, and its elliptical shaped dining room is similar to that in the nation's White House. Many high ranking naval officers and their families have occupied the home where notables from every country have been entertained. The home boasts a spacious conservatory where plants and blooms of every variety grow in profusion.

Over 400 navy officers and their wives were received by Rear Admiral and Mrs. Woodward upon their annual "at home" day when they were assisted by Mrs. Hearn.

Other highlights marking Mrs. Hearn's stay in the metropolis included a visit to the grounds and buildings under construction for next year's World's Fair, and her attendance at Metropolitan Opera performances and at the presentation of the 1939 Ice Follies in Madison Square Garden.

AMONG novel parties planned for the holiday season is that at which Marjorie Crider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Crider, will entertain on December 21 at the country home of her parents in Norcross. Marjorie returns today from the University of Georgia, in Athens, to spend the holidays with her parents here.

On the 21st, however, the youthful hostess and 50 members of the college contingent will motor to the beautiful country home in Norcross, which is one of the most historic in the state, and which originally belonged to Mrs. Crider's grandfather, the late S. T. McElroy. The guests will enjoy piping hot drinks served a la carte, and a delicious barbecue prepared over a grill. Bon fires will illuminate the scene, and dancing will be a feature of the party.

Trio To Entertain At Tea-Dance Dec. 27

Misses Helen Walkley, Jean Williams and Kathryn Conn, will entertain at a tea-dance on December 27, from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock, at Margaret Bryan's dance studio.

The young hostesses are popular students at E. Rivers school, being members of the seventh grade. They will be assisted in entertaining by their mothers, Mrs. Cecil Walkley, Mrs. Clyde Williams and Mrs. C. G. Conn, and Mrs. Evans Joseph.

The New Year theme will be featured in the decorations for this affair.

Peachtree Hills Club Is Entertained.

Mrs. Stanley C. Davis and Mrs. A. C. Frost entertained the Peachtree Hills Woman's Club recently at the home of Mrs. Davis on Peachtree Hills avenue. Mrs. George H. Kasper exhibited dish towels to be sold for the benefit of the blind.

The club is growing 12 potted plants to be given to Hospital No. 48. Christmas gifts will also be sent by the club to the ward which it sponsors at Hospital No. 48.

Program chairman, Mrs. H. L. Perryman, introduced Mrs. Arthur Styron, who gave "The Blue Spruce," a Christmas story. A special feature was the Christmas tree from which each member received a gift.

As a token of appreciation from the club Mrs. Styron was presented a volume of verse by Edgar A. Guest.

Mrs. A. L. Burress, Mrs. C. W. Peets and Mrs. R. L. Lackey were visitors.

Fitzgerald-Drake Engagement Told

CLARKSDALE, Miss., Dec. 15. Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher P. Fitzgerald announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Wilmoth Harvey Fitzgerald, to James Stoney Drake Jr., of Virginia Beach, Va., formerly of Atlanta, Ga. The wedding which unites prominent southern families is scheduled for next Tuesday.

The lovely bride-elect was born and reared in Clarksdale. Following her graduation from Clarksdale High school, she attended Randolph-Macon College, after which she finished her education at Brenau College. She is a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and the Rosannah Waters Chapter of D. A. R.

Mr. Drake is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Stoney Drake, of Virginia Beach, Va., and Atlanta, Ga. He graduated at McCallie school in Chattanooga, Tenn., and completed his education at Fishburne College in Waynesboro, Va.

The groom-elect is associated in business with his father, as a member of the firm, Drake Corporation, in Norfolk, Va. Following their marriage he and his bride will reside at Virginia Beach.

Parties Are Planned For Miss Woolford.

Miss Charlotte Woolford, lovely young daughter of Mr. C. Boyd Woolford, will arrive Saturday from Washington, D. C., where she is a student at the Madeira school, to spend the holidays with her mother and her sister, Miss Isabelle Woolford, at their home on Andrews drive.

A series of interesting parties has been planned in compliment to Miss Woolford, the first of which is the luncheon at which Miss Betty Hurt will entertain next Wednesday at Davison-Paxon's tea room. Miss Isabelle Woolford will keep open house on Friday afternoon, December 30, at 5 o'clock in honor of her sister.

The occasion will assemble a hundred members of the college set at the hostess' home. She will be assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. Woolford, and by a group of members of the Phi Pi sorority.

Christian Home Club.

Christian Home Club of Grace Methodist church met recently with Mrs. E. F. Newell, 1149 Ponce de Leon avenue. Mrs. Jack Fligg and Mrs. Claude Gamble were co-hostesses.

Mrs. Joe Dekle, president, presided over the business meeting.

Mrs. E. G. Brandt was in charge of the program. The subject was "Christmas in the Home."

Mesdames Brooks McCrory, Lyman A. Johnson, Roe Callaway, C. P. Bagley, Albert Taylor and C. F. Newell participated on the program.

Club will have a party Friday evening at the church in the recreation room.

Annual Doll Breakfast Planned By Camp Fire Girls For Saturday

Camp Fire Girls' annual doll breakfast will be held tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock, at S. & W. cafeteria, with girls from the entire Atlanta Council bringing dolls they have dressed to give to the Salvation Army Toy Store. Groups have been busy for some weeks sewing on doll clothes and several hundred dolls will be contributed.

Santa Claus will be on hand to welcome the girls and to receive the dolls during the grand march, which will be led by Ann Seitzinger and Margaret Mizell, president and vice president of Girls' Council.

Older groups of Camp Fire Girls will decorate tables in competition and the table that is most attractive will be awarded a prize. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Walden will act as judges, with Mrs. J. C. Malone, president of the Camp Fire board of directors. Other groups will make place cards and favors to use on the remainder of the tables.

The groups decorating tables will include North Fulton High school, Mesdames Jim Frazier and Harold Williams, guardians; Girls' High, Mrs. Jack White and Miss Dorothy Sanford, guardians; North Avenue Presbyterian school, Mrs. Sidney Smith, leader; Idakia group, Mrs. R. P. Seitzinger, leader; Bass Junior High, Mrs. Frank Cantrell, leader; Decatur High, Ayaw group, Mrs. Walter Thomas, leader, and Druid Hills High, Miss Jeanne Turner, leader.

A chorus composed of members of Kawata group, of Hoke Smith Junior High school, of which Mrs. J. Y. Wilson is guardian, will sing Christmas carols, wearing the traditional carolers costume, and will lead the group in singing in singing familiar carols.

The breakfast climaxes the council-wide parties in Camp Fire for the holiday season, and starts a round of group parties and council fires that will take place next week. These include a luncheon for Shantaki group by their guardian, Mrs. A. E. Wilson; a council fire for Twami group, Mrs. W. A. Barksdale, leader; Wakoda group, Mrs. T. W. Branch, leader, and for Wayoka group, Mrs. Stokely Northcutt, leader; a party for Kinunko group, Mrs. W. W. Shippey, leader, and Kawata group, Mrs. J. Y. Wilson, guardian.

The seven groups at Bass Junior High school will join in the community program to be held at the school on Christmas Eve. Their leaders include Mesdames R. P. Seitzinger, M. G. Perry, W. P. Roselle, E. V. Fillmore, Mason Ford, Frank Cantrell and Miss Eva Poliakoff.

Spear-Porch.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Dec. 15.—The marriage of Miss Thelma Spear, of Key West, Fla., to Benjamin Spear, of Arcadia, Fla., formerly of Barnesville, was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowe in Arcadia on November 24.

Mr. Spear is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Spear, of Barnesville. He was graduated from Gordon College here and from the University of Florida in Gainesville, where he was prominent in athletics, starting in football. He is now athletic coach at De Soto High school in Arcadia, where he and his bride will reside.

For Miss Lambdin.

Miss Clara Lambdin, whose marriage to John Sidney Waddle, of New Orleans, will be an important event of December 21, was central figure at the luncheon given Wednesday by Miss Neil Mitchell and Mrs. Andrew Kingery. Covers were laid for Miss Lambdin, Miss Mitchell, Mrs. Kingery and Mesdames Guy Holcomb, Gerald P. O'Keefe, O. H. Lowther, Tillman Morris, James Grizzard and Miss Ruth Lowther.

County Residents Protest Atlanta Annexation Plan

More Than 100 Appear at Public Hearing; Many Declare Benefits To Be Derived Are Not Worth Price of Yielding Present Status.

Residents of the northside section and other outlying areas vigorously protested a proposal for annexation to Atlanta at a public hearing yesterday afternoon at the city hall.

More than 100 appeared before the legislative and ordinance committee to voice protests. Only two spoke in behalf of the change. Since Councilmen J. Allen Couch and Cecil Hester were the only members of the committee present, action was deferred to a meeting of the full committee.

Principal objection to the proposal was that residents now living outside the city limits would not receive sufficient benefits to justify the increase in taxes. Others pointed to the beauty of the northside area and said residential sections in the city had not been adequately protected against the inroads of business. Several predicted residents would move still farther north if the area were annexed.

Sections proposed for annexation include the northside to a point beyond Buckhead, residential and industrial sections west and south of the city to the East Point limits and parts of DeKalb county.

Dewey L. Johnson, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, and W. W. Rowe were the only speakers favoring the move. A. D. Thompson, of North Decatur road, said he did not think Atlanta was prepared to give his section the benefits it would expect as a result of the increased taxes involved.

"We have good schools and we feel that we have a better government than you have in the city," he declared. "Residents of the outskirts have no right to retard the growth of the city, provided they are going to get something for their money. I don't think the city is prepared to give us that."

Other opinions as expressed at the meeting were:

Mrs. Frank Mack, of Northside drive: "The majority of residents have gone out of the city because they deliberately wanted to be there. They have bought more property than they could afford to own inside the city. They have built magnificent homes, laid out beautiful gardens and they are content with their present status. If this part is annexed they are going to move farther out so as to develop their homes as they want them."

R. T. Dutton, of Buckhead: "We boast that we have the largest suburban area in the United States and we want to keep it that way. Fulton county has built roads, the residents have erected desirable homes, we have a police force that is unequalled, adequate fire protection and good schools. We don't see any reason for coming in except to increase the population of Atlanta."

S. B. Blackburn, of Peachtree Creek section: "It's liberty that I'm speaking for. If I should want to go on living outside the city limits, there's no reason why I should not have that privilege. We don't have to have Atlanta furnish our water. We do that for ourselves. I have a well on my own and I'm satisfied with it."

Efficient Government. C. C. Berry, of Collier road: "The extra cost of water and insurance rates are all that could be expected of us because we live outside the city limits. If and when the city and its surroundings are all under one form of efficient government I'm ready to come in."

F. L. Smith, of the Druid Hills section: "You don't protect the residents within your city limits. A person goes out and builds a nice home and the first thing you know a store goes up next to him. I can't stand the number of instances where that has happened. To the city the residential sections are liabilities rather than assets."

Clem Powers, attorney: "There is no reason why the Atlantic Steel Company should be brought inside the city limits. It is in competition with other plants in Birmingham, which already have an advantage because of the proximity of raw materials. The proposal would increase our taxes without giving us corresponding advantages."

W. A. Jones, of Center Hill: "Most of the people in our section are small home-owners and are having a hard pull to make ends meet already."

Farmer Speaks. E. B. Beam, farmer: "I own a few acres out on the Buford highway and I don't see how I could pay any more taxes and make a living."

Mrs. George Slapley, of Peachtree Hills section: "I don't see how you have to pay for what you get, but I think residents should be convinced they are getting a square deal. You should make us understand that you don't want us to come in just to get our capital."

C. A. Alexander: "The purpose of the committee is laudable. But the city doesn't have the money to spend on additional municipal facilities. The solution to our problem will be the consolidation of government of the various sections."

Others speaking against the proposal included R. A. Williams, of Howell Mill road; R. B. Scott, of Bellevue avenue; Asa Bearse, Mrs. E. S. Saine, of Lakeshore circle; Mrs. Harry Kemp, of Chestnut Bridge road; Mrs. F. G. Strother, of Cook's Civic Club; E. J. Jones, of Northside drive; P. D. Coursey, Center Hill, and George H. Slapley.

Annexation Favored. Speaking for the proposal, Johnson said the Atlanta Federation of Trades had endorsed the move. "The densely-populated areas are receiving services furnished by the municipality and should be made a part of Atlanta," he said. "We feel the prestige of Atlanta is at stake because it is being outstripped in popularity by other southeastern cities. We favor annexation and we hope it can be accomplished."

In his appeal for annexation, Rowe said "the only way to build a great city is to extend its corporate limits. If the county commissioners don't quit furnishing these people outside the limits with city advantages, somebody is going to be put out of office. And unless we extend our limits it won't be long before Atlanta won't have anything but a poor white folks and negroes."

Councilman Couch, who drew up the proposal, explained to the delegations that the citizens of Atlanta had paid for most of the improvements in the outlying areas.

"If you had just gotten what you paid for you would still be in the forest just beyond Peachtree Creek," he asserted. "I feel that Atlanta needs the citizenship of these areas. And so far as governmental functions are concerned you wouldn't be taxed any more by coming in than by staying out, unless you were taxed at the expense of your neighbors."

Under Couch's proposal, the population would be increased to approximately 400,000, and about $200,000,000 of property would be brought into the city.

Jane Feels Gavin Slipping From Her Since the Return of Dulcie, Her Sister

By RUBY M. AYRES.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.
"There's a great risk. I'm not a business man—and the fact that I—or rather that you—have put money into the show, is no guarantee that I shall be a success." There was a sort of hard un-happiness in his voice. Jane slipped her hand into his. "Don't look on the dark side, dear," she said. He let her hand lie in his, but he gave it no answering pressure, and he did not seem to notice when presently she drew it gently away.

It was like struggling up a hill, she thought—a hill which she knew perfectly well you cannot really climb, and yet you have to go on—trying. The telephone bell rang in the hall, and with a sense of relief Jane rose to answer it. "Pamela, speaking—I am bringing Sidney back to supper. Will you tell Mary, please—Is Dulcie back?" "Not yet." "Or Gavin?" "Yes."

"Oh—well, I hope there'll be enough food," Pamela sounded a little anxious—the ordering of meals was a constant worry to her. "Gavin is not staying," Jane told her. "Oh—well, then it will be all right. I shall be in by half-past seven."

Jane went back to the drawing room. "It was Pamela—she is bringing Sidney for supper." "The highly respectable suitor," Gavin said. She flushed. "I wish you wouldn't sneer at Sidney," she said offensively. "He's really very kind."

"Kind?" Gavin echoed. "I think kindness is the greatest thing in the world," Jane said. She stooped to poke the dying fire. Presently Gavin said, "Well, I suppose I must be off. It's past 7."

"You mustn't be late for dinner," Jane agreed quietly. It was all so unbelievable—so tragic! And then she wondered whether that was too exaggerated a word, or whether the small and apparently inexplicable things of life are its greatest tragedies. "Shall I see you tomorrow?" Gavin asked.

"Yes, of course, if you want to," she answered. He turned toward the door, and then suddenly she seemed to come to life, so that she took a step to follow him.

"Gavin?" He stopped, and she said, half laughing, half in tears: "What is the matter with us? We seem so—different—somehow. Everything seems to have gone wrong since Dulcie came home, and then she would have given 10 years of her life never to have spoken her sister's name."

"Dulcie?" he asked. "I mean, during the last week," Jane explained. "We were so happy before, and now—I feel as if there are miles and miles between us which I can't cover."

She was flushed with eagerness and the desire to make him understand the things she could not say, and it was like a cold wind blowing upon her heart when he answered: "Perhaps you are beginning to regret your generosity to a penniless man. I warned you, you know, and if it's that—"

Jane just looked at Gavin and she saw the color rise dully in his handsome face.

"I'm sorry, Jane. I'm out of sorts. You're too good to me—I don't deserve it. I—"

Then he laughed. "We're making a tragedy out of nothing," he said more naturally. "It will be all right—later on, when things are settled."

But Jane could not smile, and he came back, looking down at her with sorry eyes. "I'm a brute," he said remorsefully. "And you're an angel of patience and forgiveness. Forgive me, Jane—"

Her eyes filled with tears. "I love you, she whispered. It seemed an eternity before he answered, and then he put an arm around her, drawing her to him. "You've made a bad bargain, my dear."

For a moment she clung to him and then, as if afraid of the emotion that had arisen between them, she tried to laugh. "I'm the best judge of that," she said. "Run along now to supper, or you'll be unpopular with Mrs. Bingham. Come tomorrow morning—and don't worry, dear—everything is quite all right."

But she knew it was not—she knew it was not, and after he had gone, the old despair descended once more like a cold weight upon her shoulders. Ought she to offer to release him? Was that what he wanted? Did he really hate the idea of this partnership, and was he only going on with it for her sake?

It was agonizing to sit at the supper table and watch Pamela and Sidney Dale. She had always considered them to be rather a dull pair, but tonight she understood the quiet happiness of their relationship and their gentle consideration for each other.

"Of course, Pamela will marry him," she told herself. "And I suppose Dulcie will marry her Josh—or won't she? And then—there will be only me left to look after father."

Her thoughts seemed to come to a full stop. The Moon on the Water! "A fair woman who will cast a cloud over your life!" She seemed to hear Dulcie's voice as she bent over Gavin's hand.

As if it could possibly be true! And even supposing there were things to be discovered from palmistry, or from an ordinary pack of cards, how could Dulcie possibly know anything about it? She had just been pretending—just been trying to draw attention to herself; it was foolish to allow oneself to be influenced.

Jane's dragged her thoughts back to something Sidney was saying. "I've bought a house; did Pamela tell you, Jane?" He made the announcement in his quiet voice as if it were quite an ordinary every-day thing to buy a house, but Jane saw the sudden light in Pamela's eyes.

"Oh, no, she hasn't told me," Jane said. "Where is it? How thrilling. What are you going to do with it?"

"Live in it, of course," he answered. Jane looked at her sister, but Pamela merely said: "There's nothing settled yet. Sidney has bought the house, and it's very nice, but the workmen won't be out for another month at least." And then she deliberately changed the conversation.

But to Jane it was like the first roll of drums heralding disaster. Pamela was going to be married, and that would mean that she must stay at home to look after their father, because, of course, nobody in his senses would imagine that Dulcie would consider it to be her duty.

But later on in the evening when Sidney had taken his departure, Pamela said casually, "Even if we do decide to get married, I shall have father live with us. Sidney knows that and he is quite willing."

Jane drew a long breath of relief, and her sister asked shrewdly, "Did you imagine I was going to leave him to you?" "I never thought about it," Jane answered, but she felt as if a great load had been lifted from her shoulders.

She should like to see the house," she said presently. "It's quite nice," Pamela answered with deep satisfaction. "It's got two bathrooms—such an asset, I think—and a boiler for the hot water. No more horrid stoves. I shall take Mary, too, if she'll come."

AMERICANS FAVOR MILITARY TRAINING FOR CCC YOUTHS

Only One-Third of Voters Back Universal Service Idea, However, Gallup Investigators Discover.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Military training for the young men in the camps of the Civilian Conservation Corps—a proposal championed by many advocates of preparedness—is widely approved by the voting public, according to a survey just completed by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

With the federal government launching a large military and naval rearmament program, the Institute, through a field staff of more than 700 investigators, asked a cross-section of voters in all states: "Do you think military training should be part of the duties of the boys in the CCC camps?"

The results were:
Yes 75%
No 25%

On two previous occasions within the past two years the Institute has polled the nation on this question and found a large proportion of voters—75 per cent or more—consistently in favor of military training in the corps.

Around the Service.
This overwhelming question naturally raises the question whether public opinion wishes to go a step further and require all young men in the nation to go through a period of military service similar to that of the boys in the CCC camps. The question asked was: "Should every able-bodied American boy twenty years old be required to go into the army or navy for one year?"

The replies were:
Yes 37%
No 63%

The fact that as many as 37 per cent favor this drastic step may come as a surprise to many pacifists. In analyzing the reasons why 37 per cent endorse the idea, the Institute found three main attitudes, only one of which is directly connected with national defense.

The largest number favor peace-time conscription, not because they think it is militarily necessary, but because it is "good training and discipline for future life."

The second most typical comment is that "it will improve national defense," while the third is that it would be "one good solution for unemployment."

The majority who oppose peace-time conscription declare chiefly that "it might lead to war," that compulsory military training for all is undesirable when there is no war in progress, and that it would be "too much like foreign nations."

Sentiment Differs.
Conscription of all young men of 20 is much less popular with women than with men, and is favored less by the younger age groups than by the older.

While 44 per cent of the men in the survey say they would like to see peace-time conscription only 33 per cent of the women favor the idea—possibly a reflection of difference in pacifism between the sexes.

Although all age groups oppose the idea, it is the young men aged 19 to 22 who oppose it most. Only 30 per cent of this group are for it, as compared to 34 per cent for all persons under 30 years, 39 per cent for those between ages of 30 and 49, and 36 per cent for those 50 years and over.

Resigns His Cabinet Post

DANIEL C. ROPER.

ROPER RESIGNS POST IN CABINET

Secretary of Commerce May Be Succeeded by Hopkins; Ickes To Stay.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(AP)—Daniel Calhoun Roper, secretary of commerce, resigned suddenly today and word circulated on Capitol Hill that Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator, was in line to get the cabinet post.

Roper asked to be relieved for "personal reasons" and reiterated his devotion to the "objectives" of the administration. Those close to him asserted, however, that his determination to resign was hastened by attacks from some New Dealers who disliked his conservatism.

Business Conciliation.
His role in the administration was the task of trying to conciliate businessmen, many of whom were bitterly opposed to Roosevelt policies. He organized 50 industrial and financial leaders into a business advisory council which supplied the President with confidential reports of business' attitude toward New Deal measures and tried to minimize the public antagonism of their colleagues toward the administration.

Coupled with the recent resignation of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, Mr. Roper's departure may cause an important change in the temperament of the new cabinet, especially if Hopkins, crusading member of the administration's left wing, gets the commerce post.

There was intense interest in the Roper resignation on Capitol Hill. One prominent Democratic senator, who declined to be quoted by name, predicted that Hopkins would be appointed to the vacancy to "build him up" for the presidential nomination in 1940.

This senator, often a critic of administration policies, said he was convinced that the President believed Hopkins more nearly represented his views than any other nationally prominent Democrat.

The senator said that if Hopkins were placed in the cabinet and given a chance to demonstrate that he could work in co-operation with businessmen, his political stature might be enhanced.

The possibility of one other cabinet change faded today when Interior Secretary Harold I. Ickes announced he would not run for mayor of Chicago, but at the request of Mr. Roosevelt, would "help continue the New Deal by staying in harness."

Although occasional resignation rumors have touched every member of the cabinet, chief speculation now shifted to the War Department. There have long been reports that Secretary Harry H. Woodring would step out.

Rumors that Roper would resign likewise circulated for a long time and these, friends said, were among the factors which led him to quit. He was said to believe that some of them were inspired by enemies.

The actual resignation came as a surprise to those around him. Colonel J. Monahan Johnson, senior assistant secretary who will head the department until a new secretary is appointed, first learned of it shortly before noon today. Earlier in the morning, the department's publicity office flatly denied resignation rumors, only to withdraw the statement later.

GASOLINE EXPLOSION KILLS AMERICAN MAN

AMERICUS, Ga., Dec. 15.—(AP)—Gasoline-fueled flames caused the death today of Holly Womack, 35-year-old American mechanic, whose body was found on the floor of his garage.

Coroner Ed Jenkins reported an inquest found that "Womack came to his death accidentally through a gasoline explosion."

An associate, Edgar Leavitt, who found the body, said it appeared that Womack's clothes were ignited when he attempted to start a fire in a stove.

Women Democrats Drop 'Club' Label

Members of the Fulton county women's division, Democratic party, state of Georgia, "are not club-women, but a political body of women interested in governmental policies and Democratic ideals."

That statement was made by Mrs. R. L. Turman, chairman of the legislative committee of the state organization as she explained the reason for the change in the name of the organization from the Fulton County Women's Democratic Club.

The organization also passed resolutions expressing appreciation of the 147th anniversary of the ratification of the bill of rights of the United States' constitution; commending Dr. L. C. Fisher, who has turned the Crawford Long hospital into an institution for persons of moderate means and exploring the death of the late Chief Justice Richard B. Russell, of the Georgia supreme court.

LABOR ACT REVISION URGED BY LEADERS

C. of C. and AFL Chieftains Advocate Changes to Insure Fairness.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(AP)—A business spokesman and a labor chieftain urged revision of the National Labor Relations Act tonight from the same platform.

George H. Davis, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, advocated changes in the law "so that it would be fair to both the employer and the employee."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, asserted his organization would seek amendments "to insure the application of principles of fair play."

Their common aim was set forth in prepared addresses before the Economic Club.

Davis also appealed to the new congress to "relieve business of restrictions which are holding it back. He contended the nation would "come back" if traditional opportunities were restored.

Green called for a new order in capital-labor relations based on the national labor act. "Autocratic dominations" of industry by employers, he said, had been repudiated. The recent elections, he added, confirmed the repudiation of "autocratic domination" of industry by "certain self-constituted leaders of labor."

Green said the labor act had suffered much because of "maladministration" by the National Labor Relations Board and added that the Federation would seek to correct this by offering amendments.

"SISTIE" TO STAY HOME.

SEATTLE, Dec. 15.—(AP)—"Sistie and Buzzie," grandchildren of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, will not spend Christmas in the White House at Washington, D. C., their mother, Mrs. John Boettinger, said today. She said the family would observe the day in their home here.

Top Stars Share Movie Spotlight With Dionnes at Atlanta Theaters

Fox Presents 'Hard To Get'; Loew's, 'Dramatic School'; Paramount, 'Five of a Kind'; Rialto, 'You Can't Take It With You'; Capitol, 'Renegade Ranger'.

By LEE ROGERS,
Motion Picture Editor.

Dick Powell singing only two songs in "Hard To Get" at the Fox; Luise Rainer sharing starring honors with newcomer Paulette Goddard in "Dramatic School" at the Grand, and the Dionne quintuplets dancing and singing in the Paramount's "Five of a Kind"—there you have the movie situation so far as new shows opening today are concerned.

"You Can't Take It With You" is still at the Rialto, and apparently doing as much business now as it did the first week.

"Brother Rat" has moved out to the Rialto, breaking the precedent that theater had in holding over just the shows from the Grand.

An outdoor film depicting adventures of the Texas rangers will be found at the Capitol, opening Sunday. George O'Brien is the star and the title is "The Renegade Ranger."

PARAMOUNT SHOWS "FIVE OF A KIND"

The Dionne quintuplets have graduated! Having served their screen apprenticeship, they are now revealed as full-fledged entertainers—singing, dancing, making music and fun—in their new picture, "Five of a Kind."

A Twentieth Century-Fox production, opening today at the Paramount theater, "Five of a Kind," provides a striking setting for the little ladies, as it whirles in and out of Broadway, highlighting the exciting action and romantic excitement of two rival newspaper and radio reporters.

It has been two years since Yvonne, Cecile, Marie and Emmeline emoted before the camera.

In addition to the amazing performance of the Quins, the story, which revolves around the attempt of the best star reporters to bring the Quins to New York for a personal appearance in a Broadway auditorium, is replete with thrills.

On the trail of a missing heiress, Claire Trevor, ace reporter, is outwitted by Cesar Romero, who investigates O'Brien, lifting a shony story from his pocket, which results in her losing her job.

Claire sees a news film of the Quins and conceives the idea of putting them on the air in a series of broadcasts. The wily Romero, learning of her plan, proceeds to the Canadian town ahead of her and by representing himself as a police inspector from New York has Claire and her girl friend, Inez Courtney, arrested.

"RENEGADE RANGER" COMES TO CAPITOL

Revealing the work and perils of the Texas rangers, one of the nation's oldest and most picturesque law-enforcement agencies, the new outdoor thriller, "The Renegade Ranger," brings George O'Brien to the Capitol theater screen, starting Sunday, in a story of romance and revenge.

O'Brien portrays a ranger assigned to bring in a fugitive Mexican girl who is accused of killing a ranchman. The stirring adventures he experiences during his task made for an unusually colorful picture. Rita Hayworth plays opposite O'Brien and the cast includes Ray Whitley, Tim Holt and many others.

On the stage starting Sunday the theater offers "Personality Parade," a new vaudeville revue featuring a large cast of headlining stars headed by McConnell & Moore, great juggling duo and the Palmer troupe of teeterboard artists.

Capitol's current screen offering, "Sons of the Legion," starring Atlanta's own Evelyn Keyes and special cast, ends Saturday.

At 9 o'clock tonight the Capitol will offer its usual Friday night amateur contest during which time seven special acts of amateur vaudeville will be offered.

FOX FEATURES "HARD TO GET"

Dick Powell and Olivia De Havilland are teamed in the leading roles of "Hard To Get," a breezy, fast-moving comedy with many complications, produced by Warner Brothers, which opens today at the Fox theater.

The name of Dick Powell means, of course, that there is some music in the production, but Dick sings only two songs and they are both introduced plausibly into the action of the piece.

In fact, Dick is not, as usual, playing a singer in his latest picture. He is an ambitious and aggressive young businessman who, at the outset, is shown as the manager of a combined gas station and auto camp, and most of the interest—as well as the complications—arises from his efforts to interest some capitalists in his plan to establish a chain of auto camps across the country.

Olivia is a spoiled and petulant heiress who buys gas and oil at Dick's place and then finds she is without a cent to pay for it. Whereupon Dick, who doesn't know who she is, uses physical force to compel her to work out her bill by sweeping out and making the beds in the 10 bungalows of his auto camp.

Besides Dick and Olivia, the other important members of the cast include Charles Winninger, Allen Jenkins, Bonita Granville, Melville Cooper, Isabel Jeann, Penny Singleton, Grady Sutton and Thurston Hall.

RIALTO HOLDS OVER REMARKABLE COMEDY

Manager W. T. Murray, of the Rialto theater, announced he will extend the run of the Frank Capra masterpiece, "You Can't Take It With You," for a fourth week.

This remarkable piece of screen entertainment has been classed, by many who have seen it, as even finer than previous Capra successes, not excepting "Mr. Deeds," "Theodora Goes Wild," "Lady for a Day" and "Broadway Bill."

Taken from the stage success of the same name, the story was made into a fascinating and sparkling scenario by Robert Riskin. The dialogue throughout is a delight. The cast contains many names of top rank in box office rating, including Lionel Barrymore, Jean Arthur, James Stewart,

"Anna Held" part in "The Great Ziegfeld." This time she is cast as a poor but brilliant girl who works in a factory by night in order to pay her tuition by day in a "Dramatic School."

Paulette Goddard has her second talkie role—the first being her debut in "The Young In Heart"—as another pupil of the school who stops at nothing to fulfill her ambitions. Lana Turner is a chorus girl who wished to better herself via the dramatic route, while Alan Marshall depicts a dissolute young heir who enters the life of the students when Miss Rainer, to hide the secret of her late hours, boasts about her affair with him. Miss Goddard jealously arranges to expose her and the poor girl is in a turmoil as she comes face to face with her dream lover.

Henry Stephenson, Gale Sondergaard, Genevieve Tobin and Ann Rutherford are featured in the supporting cast.

"BROTHER RAT" SHIFTS TO RHODES
"Brother Rat" moves out to the Rhodes theater today. It stars Wayne Morris and Priscilla Lane.

LOEW'S PRESENTS "DRAMATIC SCHOOL."
The story of four girls who wanted stage fame at any price is the theme of "Dramatic School."

The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, which opens at Loew's today, stars Luise Rainer, Paulette Goddard, Alan Marshall, Lana Turner and Virginia Grey.

Miss Rainer has an actress role reminiscent of her academy award

Like the stage hit upon which it is based, the picture is a story of life at the Virginia Military Institute, one of the country's more aristocratic colleges. All the action takes place on the campus and in the college town. There the resemblance to formula films of undergraduate capers ends.

"Brother Rat" does have a baseball game. But the hero doesn't hit a home run in the ninth inning to save the day for V. M. I. He's locked up in his room under arrest, and doesn't even get to see the few flashes of the game that audiences will be shown. His pal, the V. M. I. pitcher, gets knocked out of the box. And to complete the rout of formula, the home team loses.

The song and dance routines and the dumb professors, stock ingredients of the formula flickers, don't come even that close to getting recognition.

"GARDEN OF MOON" IS FOX PREMIERE

ATLANTA, GA., DECEMBER 16, 1938.

A CALL FOR REDEDICATION

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

Thus the opening sentences of the second paragraph of the Declaration of Independence. Thus the foundation upon which rests all the political faith, the patriotic honor and the idealism which is the root and branch, stem and flower, of the democracy of the United States.

Never in the history of this country, nor in all the story of man's slow climb out of slavery into freedom, was there greater need for full understanding of and complete re-dedication to this faith by all Americans. By all Americans of every class, of every race, of every breed, of every origin.

Magna Carta, the primary charter of the rights of man, dates from 1215. Since that day at Runnymede, when the nobles of England wrested from a tyrannical king the first principles of justice for all men, the glorious saga of mankind's freedom march has told new triumphs, year after year, century after century.

Today, however, large portions of the world have surrendered those rights of democratic liberty. Whole nations bartered them for the mirage of security that was held before the suffering eyes of their people as they struggled across the desert of post-war distress.

Totalitarian government, which substitutes enslavement to the state for the freedom of the citizen, has gained an apparent death grip in many nations. The evil virus is at work, even in this America of which we have all been so proud; this America dedicated to the ideals of democracy and the dignity and independence of every man, humble or great, rich or poor.

Nations of the old world have bartered away their birthright for the dictators' mess of pottage. Individuals and groups, in our own land, look longingly today to that same pottage, forgetting in their blindness all those ideals upon which this country was founded and for which the fathers gave their all.

Selfishness is at the root of most of those movements, in the United States, which peril the foundations of our governmental system. Selfishness of groups, some great, some small, which seek special privilege, special benefits, taken from the rights of all the people.

Whether that special privilege is sought in the guise of advantage to big business, or as a permanent handout by the man, or woman, who believes the government must support them, it is a threat to the very heart of equal liberty and fairness to all.

The nation needs, today more than ever before, a re-dedication by all her people to those principles of the constitution which must live eternally in the hearts of freedom-seeking men, everywhere. There need be no doubt that those principles will survive. Someday, somewhere, they will win the final victory and all men shall stand, free and equal, in the sight of their fellows and their God.

There is, however, no certainty that free democracy shall defeat the present onslaught of its foes. There may be dark days coming when, even in America, the cause of human liberty shall meet apparent death, when it shall survive only in the hearts of a few.

Eventually, it must win. The danger today is not of final defeat, but of a setback in the struggle which may undo all that has so far been won, from Magna Carta to the Constitution of this country.

In order to avert that setback, to save the world from a 1,000-year-long reversion to mediocrity, let all Americans today read and study, with their minds, their hearts and their souls, those immortal documents of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, together with those amendments which constitute the Bill of Rights.

And, having read and studied and understood, let all Americans take unto themselves, individually and collectively, that pledge which ends the Declaration, that promise of free men, in full realization of their act and all it involves:

"And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor."

CHIEF JUSTICE REID

The acceptance by Charles S. Reid of the appointment as chief justice of the Georgia supreme court, to fill the unexpired term of the late Chief Justice Richard B. Russell Sr., brings to that important post a lawyer of exceptional ability and one who has made a deep study of constitutional law.

Justice Reid, while a comparatively young man, has already won a high reputation in Georgia for a sagacious and analytical mind, qualities which are essential to the duties of the supreme court. He is a man of charming personality, but inflexible in his stand for principle and for the ideals of abstract justice.

As chairman of the state Democratic executive committee he made friends in every section and corner of the state. In that sometimes difficult post he won the respect and friendship of all with whom he came in contact. He is a true example of the finest type of modern Georgian and will unquestionably bring new distinction to the state in his new capacity.

Governor Rivers scored another fine appointment for his administration in selecting Justice Reid as successor to the late beloved Justice Russell.

The new chief justice faces a difficult task in carrying on the traditions of Georgia's highest tribunal, but one which every Georgian who knows him believes he can accomplish to the benefit of the entire state and with highest honor for himself.

WAS THIS THE SHOWDOWN?

The truce of Munich stands today revealed as the chimera which many felt it represented at the time of its signing. There is growing evidence that Prime Minister Chamberlain has realized, for the last month, the utter impossibility of obtaining honest co-operation for peaceful relations from the Rome-Berlin axis except at the price of making Great Britain a dependency of the Nazi "dark age" government.

The showdown, perhaps, came Wednesday night when the Reich attempted to dictate the subject matter of Chamberlain's speech before the Foreign Press Association. In effect, the German government demanded the right to denounce in gutter language respected citizens and institutions of the empire, while at the same time denying the right of free speech in another sovereign country. Symbolically, the attempt degenerated into a display of petty temper that found Germany represented at the press banquet by empty chairs, which was not inappropriate. The Reich has forfeited its right to sit with the representatives of civilized nations dedicated to the preservation of truth and freedom of their peoples.

A further reflection came the following morning when the prime minister, in a speech to the house of commons, informed members that Great Britain would view with gravity any attempt on the part of Italy to disturb the status quo in the Mediterranean. When placed with other utterances of the prime minister, it becomes evident that France will be backed to the utmost in defense of her colonial possessions in the Mediterranean and the Red Sea.

The visit, with official sanction, of Anthony Eden to this country also reflects the changed attitude of the prime minister. The youthful statesman has returned to the councils of the government, and there can be little doubt that his announced mission to this country—to sound out American public opinion—will be followed by a return to membership in the cabinet. He will find in this land a determination to keep the United States from involvement in the turmoil of European power politics; but he also will find a strong sentiment for sending supplies to the democracies should they become involved in warfare. It is difficult to predict how the quicksilver of American public opinion would shift in the event of actual warfare, yet that sentiment undeniably exists and would undoubtedly be strengthened provided ample safeguards are provided against actual involvement. With this, England could have no complaint, since it has been the expressed intent of the empire not to send huge armies again to the fields of the continent.

There can be no criticism of Chamberlain in the failure of Munich. The prime minister made superhuman efforts to stave off the flood of hate that motivates Hitler—efforts made at huge personal cost. Nazi megalomania has doomed his attempt to secure "peace in our time," but the fact remains he sought, at the greatest sacrifice of prestige, to level the tides of fury.

Who remembers when ruling a great power was more a dilettante's pastime, and the only iron man was a Giants' pitcher named McGinnity?

A debate rages among London psychiatrists as to what all the new Caesars. It may be necessary to invent a word for it, like patriotic kleptomani.

Editorial of the Day

GERMANY'S DEBTS.

(From the Birmingham News.)

The German government has announced a new issue of bonds. The amount is 1,500,000,000 marks ($600,000,000), with interest at 4½ per cent. The money is needed to extend the Reich's armaments program and to meet expenses resulting from the acquisition of Austria and Sudetenland. Since the Nazis came into absolute power in 1933, the German national debt has been increased by $2,280,000,000.

Those figures mean, among other things, that Germany's national debt has been increasing faster since Hitler came to power, considering population, than has the United States national debt, and much criticism is made of Washington's mounting debt.

Apparently, too, it is getting difficult to borrow money in Germany. The interest rate of 4½ per cent is almost double the rate of 2½ per cent at which the United States can float similar bonds.

Significant, too, is the purpose of the new loan—armaments and expenses made necessary by the acquisition of new territory. More and more costly grows the path of empire.

Let it be remembered, too, that the new loans seek revenue in addition to the $400,000,000 fine imposed upon the Jews because a Jewish youth living in France had suffered beyond endurance and shot a German. Hitler must be needing money badly, and much of it.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

GROWING SPLIT IN G. O. P. WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The division among Republicans is rapidly becoming as serious as the division among Democrats. In these last months, former President Herbert Hoover has redoubled his activities as the evangelist of Republican fundamentalism. His party's recent successes have lent new fervor to his preaching, and, as there are many who dissent from his views, a real intraparty struggle has begun.

Before election, Hoover personally intervened in several states, urging local candidates to blast the New Deal in his own stern manner. Some were converted. Others refused. The disagreement between Hoover and Thomas E. Dewey, in New York, for example, was positive and rather sharp.

Now Hoover has taken the election results as the text for a practical sermon, which he addresses to every one of the Republican politicians encountered in his journeys about the country. He argues that Dewey's failure to heed his counsel cost the Republicans a New York victory. He depicts the voting elsewhere as a handsome triumph for fundamentalism, using Pennsylvania and Michigan as his most important illustrations. He develops his old theme, that the Republicans must oppose the New Deal "on principle," and he pleads for unyielding opposition as the certain road to still more splendid victories at the polls.

MODERNIST STRATEGY The difference between Hoover's fundamentalism and the doctrines of those who may be described as Republican modernists is nowhere more striking than here in Washington. The Republican members of congress, whom the former President privately denounces as namby-pamby and lacking in principle, are modernist almost to a man. Lately the senate leader, Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, and other chief executives have returned to town. They are quite as gratified as Hoover by their party's gains. But they smile wryly at the mention of a frontal assault on the New Deal.

In legislative and other matters, they are already planning friendly co-operation with conservative Democrats. They hope to avoid outbursts of ultra-partisan feeling. And their last desire is to present a specific program of their own. "What would be the use?" they ask. "We couldn't pass it. We would antagonize our Democratic friends. We would provide a specific target for criticism. And we would probably prevent the Democrats from hanging themselves, as we now hope they'll do."

RICH AND POOR UNLIKE The question of program is central, for it is the cause of the chief difference between Hoover and the Republican modernists. The Hoover program is unusually interesting, therefore.

Its chief point is a balanced budget, which he hopes to effect by returning to the relief system he set up during his own presidency. He sees that relief must now be federally financed. But he does not stop at demanding state administration. He suggests that relief funds be disbursed by "non-partisan local committees." He has stated that his system would keep relief costs down to $1,500,000,000 annually.

Point number two is a lowering of taxes on large earned income (but not inheritance), in order to encourage private enterprise. Other points are re-establishment of the gold standard, encouragement of individualism, and improvement of such New Deal reforms as the Securities and Exchange Acts, in the substance of which the former President believes.

The most striking feature of the Hoover program is the political courage required of its advocates. He not only wants the Republican party to unsoak the rich, by lowering high bracket taxes. Apparently he also desires to reduce government benefits to the poor, for relief costs could not be cut to anywhere near his estimate without materially lowering relief standards. About $450 annually would be the largest practicable average payment. And that, for family cases and even individuals, is a very small sum indeed.

The fact that the Hoover program demands courage is the best test of the former President's sincerity. That he is a deeply moral man, and that he is fighting for what he thinks best for the country, must be conceded by his bitterest enemies. But surely there is some justification for the Republican modernist's view that the Hoover program amounts to honorable (but still unpleasant) political harakiri.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

There was a farm wife at Manutia,
Who churned what she thought was good butter.

But the stuff that she made
Always tasted decayed,
With an odor too utter to utter.

Another

Difficulty

Good friend Ralph McGill, in the column one door to the right of this and up eight tales, talked somewhat superficially the other day about the making of butter on the farms of Georgia. He seemed to think it was quite a simple thing for all farms to turn out butter of standard, uniform high quality, if they only put together on the process and exert a little extra effort.

So, in order not to take him unawares, I notified Friend McGill that his casual remarks about butter might prove embarrassing to Silhouettes before many days had passed. Here it is.

Country Butter

Not So Good.

As a matter of actual fact, country butter—that is, butter made in small quantities by the farm wives in their own churns—is rarely of high quality. Except in the rarest of instances it can't compare with creamery butter, made in a factory that turns out great quantities every day.

It is a strange thing, however, that, regardless of its flavor or quality, people who have eaten the same butter for years, always think it is the finest ever made. They acquire a special taste for that particular product. Regarding less how bad it may be, they think it is something specially good. I have been invited, many times, to sample the butter made by some good farm wife and which her family and friends prize as a product to be envied by any banquet table. Only to find it, on tasting, vile stuff hardly fit for human consumption.

(Of course, one never tells the proud farm wife the truth, under such circumstances. It is simpler and easier to dissuade, tell her it is a world's champion at butter-making and—eat as little of the stuff as you can get away with.)

An Art To Butter Making.

The art of butter-making, in a modern creamery, begins with the arrival of the milk, or cream, at the receiving platform. Just as the lid is taken from each can, while the cream is being poured into the confinement, the head butter-maker takes a judicial sniff. His trained nose can tell, to uncanny exactitude, the condition of that milk or cream. Its cleanliness, purity and degree of acidity, or sourness.

If it is a whole-milk creamery, the milk is then put through the turbine separators, pouring in through one channel as whole milk, and out two other channels as cream and the other skim milk.

The cream goes into great vats, scientifically purified and cleaned. The cream generally is pasteurized en route, killing all undesirable bacteria.

Then the cream, in the vat, is given a supply of lactic acid bacteria, in the form of a culture. This is the bacteria which turns the milk sugar into acid, thereby souring the cream.

The degree of sourness, or percent of acidity, must be exactly right. It is tested with an acidometer. And the temperature of the cream must be correct to a degree. Then, and only then, it is run into the great churns, operated by steam or electric power.

The Fat

In Milk.

The butter fat is present in milk, or cream, in the form of minute globules, each held in a tiny coating of a material that, a few years ago anyway, science had been unable to analyze. The globules are so small that, taken 6,000, of average size, placed side by side, to make an inch.

Churning is simply the splashing around of the cream until, say, two of these globules strike together with sufficient force to break the protective envelope and become one, larger globule. This happens to all, and gradually the process is repeated until the fat globules are large enough to give the cream a rough, instead of a smooth appearance. This is colloquially known as "breaking" of the cream. Then, a little more churning, and the fat has joined together in lumps large enough to float at the top and allow the residue, the buttermilk, to be drained off. Then the fat masses are washed, to clear away the last residue of buttermilk.

Next comes the scientifically accurate salting and "working" of the fat, until it is properly smooth and even and equally salted.

More machinery cuts it into pound- or quarter-pound blocks and still more machinery wraps it in that thin, semi-transparent paper. And it goes into the cartons, absolutely untouched by human hands from start of the process until ending.

So you see how impossible it is for butter made in small quantities, in hundreds of farm homes, to attain that perfection and uniformity of quality found in creamery butter.

However, McGill, I'll concede one thing. Country butter can, at least, be clean and packed in full pound units. And to those who like it, it is probably good.

But, as an old expert at butter making, butter sampling, butter tasting and butter smelling—I'll take the creamery product, every time.

Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Tuesday, December 16, 1913: "Cincinnati, December 15.—Six are known to be dead, one woman and two children are missing and are thought to have perished, and one man was fatally injured in a fire which swept the Salvation Army Home for Men here tonight."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From the news columns of Sunday, December 16, 1888:

"Miss Clara Barton, president of the Red Cross association, has returned to Washington from a visit to Jacksonville, where she spent Thanksgiving week distributing money among nurses who had received no pay for services rendered during the yellow fever epidemic."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Strip-Tease NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Stackpole Authors, the book publishers, have released a little blurb about John Fante, a young author on their list, in connection with his novel, "Wait Until Spring," which says that he starts work fully dressed and ends entirely naked. I have not had a chance to read the book, being 'way back on my fiction due to preoccupation with many angry books about the scoundrel who ripped the American people away back before the turn of the century, books about Hitler, Mussolini and Japan and books of disillusionment about the great Soviet experiment in human betterment by blackkilling Communists, who spent six months in Moscow and came out scratching.

In the matter of fiction I am no further along than "Black Oxen," so, unless "Wait Until Spring" is indeed one of those living, human documents, it will be cold on the drug store shelves long before I can get around to it. But, whatever the merits of Mr. Fante's writing, I venture to suggest that he might do just as well or better if he were to keep his shirt on and learn to relax, because no man can undress completely at his work without conscious affectation, which seems to impair his treatment of his story. Even in the presence of himself alone a man is pretty sure to feel that he is being just too, too temperamental, and there is the distracting discomfort to be considered. A mosquito or two or a lone, persistent fly nagging away in summer will disturb the concentration of the most intent artist, and in winter, even in Los Angeles, where Mr. Fante lives, the big air will raise goose pimples as big as beans and the breeze will set him to sneezing. Moreover, while a cane chair would cause the maximum of discomfort, any chair would be slightly uncomfortable, whereas the effect he sought is detachment from physical considerations and casualness and comfort.

Rival

Novels

One time in Chicago, for example, the Daily News bought a baseball novel by Christy Mathewson called "Won in the Ninth," and Mr. Bickett, city editor of the American, seeing an announcement of this great work, determined not to be scooped entirely. France Chance was then the local baseball hero of Chicago, and it happened that Mr. Bickett had on his city staff a first-class reporter and writer named Carl Pankaek, who was a cousin or brother-in-law of Mr. Chance. So Mr. Pankaek came in off his murder, or whatever it was, lit a cigarette and typed off the title line of a rival novel by Frank LeRoy Chance, the peerless leader of the Chicago Cubs, "A Bride and a Pennant."

He did not take off his shirt, shoes or trousers, but just sat down in one of those old-time newspaper chairs with the green leather top and the insulator for feet and wrote his first installment. Every day for a couple of weeks Mr. Pankaek would knock off a chapter of "A Bride and a Pennant," and it was my opinion, as a member of the reading public, that his novel, though shorter, was better than Mr. Mathewson's. At any rate, it took some of the fuzz off the Daily News' exclusive Mathewson novel, and I am not sure that he didn't do it just as extra, in addition to the regular murders and such.

Mr. John Wheeler, who was Mr. Mathewson's friend, occasional spook and literary adviser, does not remember, after all this time, who wrote "Won in the Ninth." He says that the novel was one of those novels that novelists.

Another

Crisis

I was impressed another time by the same crisis, the New York Mirror, in the presence of a great literary crisis. Mr. Whitaker and Mr. Jo Swerling were writing a novel called "Shebo" day by day for the Mirror, turn and turn about, until, abruptly and inconspicuously, Mr. Whitaker was sent to Hartford for the trial of Gerald Chapman, the desperado. Thus for several days Mr. Swerling, being in the office in New York, was compelled to write not only his own installments but, on the odd days, Jimmy's, too.

Then one evening after court hours I was sitting in Miss Inge Staley's room when a wire came to Mr. Whitaker saying that it was Jimmy's turn and that Mr. Swerling was stuck. He had killed off most of the characters and death was running through the east of "Shebo" like a plague but he couldn't tie the knot on the end.

So Mr. Whitaker sat down on the upended suitcase and, while we waited, beat off the final chapter, put it on the wire and caught the first spark of temperament flashed later when Mr. Whitaker and Mr. Swerling sold the movie rights to "Shebo" for $35,000 and the next day Mr. Phil Payne, the editor, telephoned Mr. Whitaker several times demanding that he come to work. Finally Mr. Payne lost his temper and threatened to which Mr. Whitaker grandly replied, "Oh, put it in writing. I am composing a symphony."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

CONGRATULATE THE STATE Georgia may be accorded very sincere congratulations on the acceptance, by Charles S. Reid, of the position as chief justice of the supreme court of Georgia.

He will do a very real job. The state and the bar will benefit. Charles S. Reid will serve at a very distinct sacrifice. It was entirely typical of the man that he did not know the salary he will receive. It will be considerably less than his income from private practice, which he will, of course, relinquish.

Typical, too, was his request that he be not sworn into office until Saturday so his mother might be present.

There is no finer citizen in the state than Charles S. Reid. He is fitted to receive the highest gift the people have to give. By any yardstick which measures ability and character he measures up to the highest standards in both.

There will be no finer citizen in any state than that which the chief justice will give to Georgia.

SUCCESS STORY

His story is one familiar to the American scene. Let it be thought such stories belong to an older generation, it ought to be mentioned Charles S. Reid is but 41 years old.

He has had to struggle for everything he has obtained. His education was obtained by walking miles to school through all types of weather.

He was working in a bank when 14 years of age. He kept on working in banks while he worked his way through college. He kept on working while he went to law school. His study of law often was interrupted by the necessity of working. He came back to it.

When he got his law degree he began to practice in Gainesville. Marion Smith, one of the leaders of the southern bar, "discovered" Reid. There was a case in Gainesville which attracted a half dozen of the state's great names in the legal profession. Charles S. Reid was the local attorney. Usually, about all such an attorney does is to assist in "striking" the jury. Charles S. Reid tried to be of assistance. He was of such assistance and showed such ability that when the case was done all the great names were talking of the young Gainesville attorney. Marion Smith generally is credited with the discovery. Through his recommendations an Atlanta firm offered a place to the young Gainesville lawyer.

Because of his affection for the governor, E. D. Rivers, he accepted the chairmanship of the state Democratic committee. He served through a most trying period. Never once was there any complaint, from any of the embattled factions, that Charles S. Reid did not give them an impartial hearing and decision.

When he resigned that position, at the Macon convention, he said of politicians:

"I have found, during my two years of service with the committee that the average politician is about as honest and as high-minded as the average business man . . . and that the opinion each has of the other is, unfortunately, too often justified."

AS TO UNSELFISHNESS

There is a human-interest story in connection with the acceptance of the position by Reid which will do with telling. It was known to a few men at noon Wednesday that Reid had dictated a letter to the Governor declining the position. It also was known at 2 o'clock Wednesday the Governor had called Reid from Milledgeville and had been told of the decision.

Late in the afternoon two of the men who knew, Ellis Arnall, assistant attorney general, and Leo Farrell, political writer for The Constitution, went to see Reid. They argued him to reconsider and accept. They spent some hours with him, seeking to effect a new decision. They were two of many who again urged upon him this service to the state.

It was a rather unquiet little scene. Had Reid declined, it almost inevitably would have meant that Judge Yoemans would have been elevated to the court and that Arnall would, in the shift of judges, become attorney general. He knew this. Yet, believing as he did that Reid was the man for the job, he urged him to accept the position.

For Farrell it meant he was sacrificing a news story which he had known while others were predicting the opposite story.

Few men in Georgia politics command that sort of following.

GOVERNOR RIVERS SPEAKS

It is a well-established fact that Georgia needs more revenue if it is to continue with increased educational service—the seven months rural schools; with health; the vitally important social legislation; with the entire state program.

No one really can oppose the Rivers program. It must be admitted by his foes and friends alike to be a progressive program which actually would advance the state.

Yesterday E. D. Rivers pledged himself to a continuation of all his efforts to carry this program. He cannot turn for Governor in 1940. He cannot be basing this decision on anything other than an honest belief in the program and a sincere desire to serve the state.

The More Power the Car Has The More It Needs Good Brakes

By ROBERT QUILLLEN.

Bill Jones was a good mechanic and a faithful union man. He and thirty of his kind worked in a model shop that produced key gadgets for a giant industry. They were responsible men, for ten thousand workers would be idle if they stopped.

One Sunday morning Bill's wife told him there was no cream for his coffee. The milkman hadn't come. Bill called the dairy and made complaint.

"I'm sorry," said a weary voice. "We are tied up by a strike. 'Get new drivers' growled Bill. 'My kid's got to have milk.' 'It's our thirty milkers,' said the weary voice. 'When they quit, our handlers and delivery men have to quit.'"

GOVERNOR LASHES UNDECLARED FOES BENT ON SABOTAGE

At Tech Dedication Ceremonies, Executive Hits Those Trying to Block State's New Tax Levies.

Governor Rivers pledged himself to the cause of liberal and progressive government in Georgia yesterday in his address at the dedicatory exercises for three new Georgia Tech buildings, completed with federal aid.

Lashing out at those without the courage to declare themselves against his Little New Deal, but who attempt to sabotage it by blocking new tax levies, and sowing seeds of discontent in the minds of those who, he said, do not realize its advantages, Rivers stated that he was more determined to see his social legislation through than he had ever been at the highest heat of one of his campaigns.

"Georgia Tech is a glowing example of the truth that progress and liberalism may not be denied," the Governor said, relating the history and early struggles of the institution.

Draws Parallel.
"There are those who say these new buildings are wonderful, we must have them, but," he paused, "they do not have the courage to raise the money to pay for them." The Governor drew the same parallel for social security, free school books, aid for the blind, and the new public health programs of the state.

"They do not have enough courage openly to declare themselves against better schools, and aid for the underprivileged," he said, "instead they stab it in the back."

In closing, Rivers praised President Roosevelt and the general assembly for making possible such works as were formally dedicated yesterday.

"The assembly is too little appreciated by the rank and file," he remarked. "It occupies a very strategic position in the state government, and many of its members are in Atlanta now, on their own time and expense, conferring with me, and talking over the problems of our state, and their solutions."

Principal Speaker.
The principal speaker at impressive exercises in the new auditorium-armory, built with PWA and WPA aid, the Governor was followed by H. T. Cole, who made a brief address, and presented the keys of the new structures to Chancellor S. V. Sanford, who accepted the buildings for the Board of Regents. C. W. Emerson, prominent Tech alumnus, accepted the buildings for the school.

President M. L. Brittain, of Georgia Tech, welcomed and presented the guests, in the presence of some 2,500 students and friends of the school, including a large delegation from the general assembly. Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Constitution, presided, while Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church, pronounced both the invocation and dedication. The Georgia Tech band furnished music for the occasion. After the ceremonies, honor guests were entertained at luncheon in the Tech dining hall by Dr. Brittain.

The structures dedicated yesterday, in addition to the auditorium-gymnasium, included a mechanical drawing building and a civil engineering building, completed at a total cost of $450,000. They have been in use since the beginning of the fall semester.

Atlanta Groups Slap at Germans With Boycotts

Two Atlanta organizations slapped Nazi Germany with boycotts yesterday.

Dewey L. Johnson, president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, announced that a resolution urging the boycott was adopted at a meeting of the federation Wednesday night, and Mack Frankel, chairman of the boycott committee of Atlanta post, Jewish War Veterans, issued a statement urging buyers to "get on the 'ban' wagon."

Johnson said a committee was appointed to instruct Atlanta merchants in the attitude of the federation, due to the Nazi mistreatment of the Jewish minority, and that members of the federation planned "a real boycott."

"All buyers should get on the ban wagon and stop buying Nazi-made goods. It is to your benefit to do so, to co-operate with organizations who have taken up the boycott."

"Hitler today is on the run, and a little co-operation from all will help him out altogether. Help the world to get back on a peace basis by boycotting German-made goods."

"Insist, at this holiday period, that the toys and other articles you buy are made in America, not in Nazi Germany. By your efforts in buying American, you will help some one in this great democracy to enjoy a happy Christmas by putting our own idle workers back on the job."

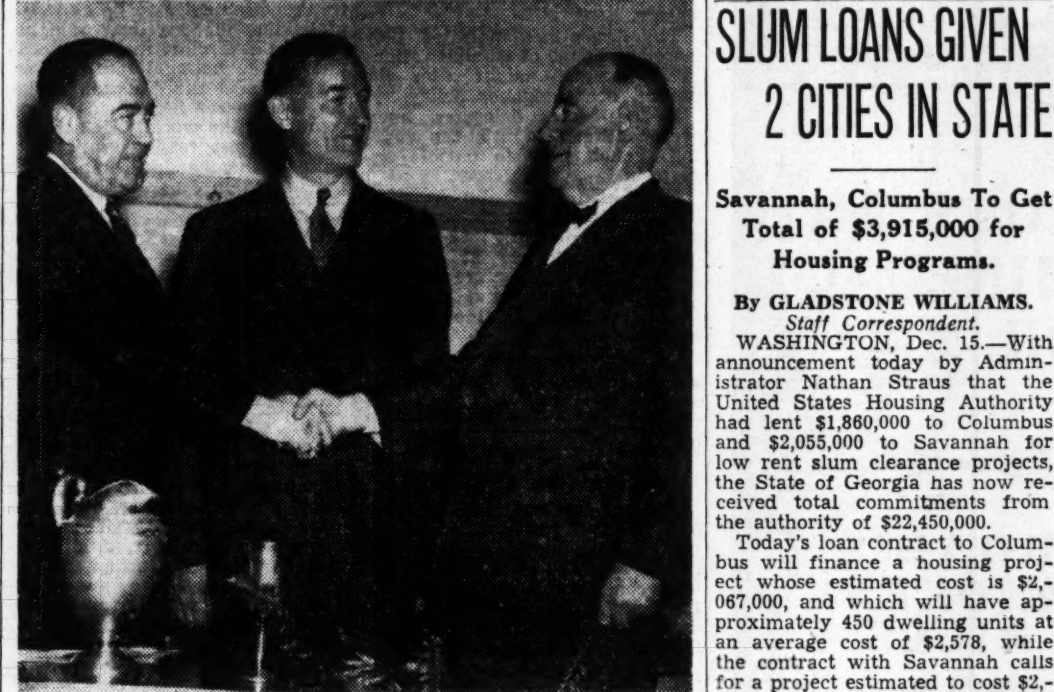

CANDELIGHT CAROLS.
NEWNAN, Ga., Dec. 15.—The three choral organizations of the Central Baptist church here, of which Miss Dorothy Moore is director, will be presented in a candlelight carol service Sunday afternoon, according to Dr. R. C. S. Young, pastor.

Rivers Warns of Lip Service to Little New Deal

Pledging his administration to a continued fight for "liberal and progressive government in Georgia," Governor Rivers warned the audience at the dedicatory exercises on the new Georgia Tech auditorium-gymnasium yesterday against those in the state who give only lip service to his Little New Deal. On the platform with the Governor are, left to right, Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech; Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Constitution, and chairman of yesterday's ceremonies; and R. L. MacDougall, assistant division director of the Works Progress Administration.

C. M. Emerson, left, Tech alumnus, accepted three new buildings for the school yesterday, at dedicatory exercises held in the recently completed auditorium on the Georgia Tech campus. Center, H. T. Cole, regional director of the Public Works Administration, and S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the University System of Georgia.

2 Pounds of Sugar Yield Swindler $1,690 in Cash From Atlanta Man

'Package' Racket Victimizes Andre Wallach, Paper Manufacturing Executive. When Secretary Is Duped by Fake Radiogram From Superior.

An intricate swindle in which a box containing two pounds of sugar was sold for $1,690 in cash was disclosed in police reports yesterday.

The victim was Andre Wallach, manager of the Sylvania Industrial Corporation, paper manufacturers, 120 Marietta street. But the swindle was "pulled" directly on Wallach's secretary, Ulysses Rice, while Wallach was on a steamship en route to Europe.

The swindle involved a fake radiogram, telephone calls, messengers and a mysterious package. "Harrison" Calls.

According to police, the "gyp" game went into its first phase two days after Wallach sailed from New York, when a man who gave his name as "Harrison" telephoned Wallach's office and spoke to Rice.

"Harrison" said he had a certified check for $2,200 which he had been instructed to give Rice in exchange for a package from Wallach. Rice told "Harrison" he had no such package and knew nothing of the deal.

The following morning, Rice found a "radiogram" under the door.

This message told Rice that "Mr. Book" would stop at the office with a package and pick up $1,690 in cash. Later, continued the message, "Mr. Harrison" would pay $2,200 for the package. The message concluded with a warning to "handle personally and hold strictly confidential." It bore the name Andre Wallach.

Messenger Sent.
A few hours after reading the "radiogram," a man who gave his name as "Mr. Book" telephoned to Rice. He said he was sending the package over by messenger, who would return with the cash.

Unaware the "radiogram" was a fake, Rice gave the messenger the money and kept the package. Rice thought no more of the matter until two days later, when he talked with Wallach by trans-Atlantic telephone. Rice mentioned that "no one had called for the package."

When Wallach said he knew nothing about such a deal, Rice discovered the swindle, and hurriedly opened the package. It was a stout, tin box, containing two pounds of sugar.

SLUM LOANS GIVEN 2 CITIES IN STATE

Savannah, Columbus To Get Total of $3,915,000 for Housing Programs.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—With announcement today by Administrator Nathan Straus that the United States Housing Authority had lent $1,860,000 to Columbus and $2,055,000 to Savannah for low rent slum clearance projects, the State of Georgia has now received total commitments from the authority of $22,450,000.

Today's loan contract to Columbus will finance a housing project whose estimated cost is $2,067,000, and which will have approximately 450 dwelling units at an average cost of $2,578, while the contract with Savannah calls for a project estimated to cost $2,284,000, with approximately 501 dwelling units at an average cost of $2,401.

The complete list of commitments to date by the authority, including earmarking outstanding and loan contracts approved for Georgia are: $11,661,000 of loan contracts approved for Atlanta; $570,000 of earmarkings outstanding for Athens; $1,369,000 loan contracts and $1,000,000 earmarkings approved for Augusta; $1,860,000 of loan contracts for Columbus; $1,750,000 earmarkings for Macon; $540,000 earmarkings for Rome; and $2,782,000 loan contracts and $918,000 earmarkings for Savannah.

The United States housing act requires the elimination of one slum dwelling unit for every new family dwelling unit built with a USDA loan.

HEIFETZ THRILLS HUGE AUDIENCE

Violinist Has Grown Greatly in Emotional Fire, Critic Says.

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG. Jascha Heifetz, genius of the violin, thrilled an audience that packed the city auditorium last night with the impeccable skill of his technique and the impassioned tone that he evoked from his priceless violin. His appearance was a presentation of the All Star Concert Series.

Heifetz is an artist supreme. Only superlatives can be used in describing his art. He has grown greatly in stature since his last Atlanta appearance, and, as always, his technical command of the instrument is awe-inspiring. He executes the most difficult technical passages with such ease that one might easily think him indifferent. Everything is done without effort, yet there emerges the most glorious revelations one can imagine.

Highlights of Program.
The highlights of the program, to this reviewer, were the Wieniawski Concerto in D minor and Saint-Saens' "Introduction and Rondo capriccioso." The Wieniawski work, which came as the third offering of the program, is a brilliant and inspirational composition, and Heifetz endowed it with his intimate genius, and the result was magnificent. The Saint-Saens number, like the Concerto, affords opportunity for a wide variety in style and mood, and it was deftly and sensitively interpreted, winning an ovation from the audience.

The program opened with Heifetz's own transcription of the Allegro movement of one of Mozart's "Divertimento" (in D major). Here classic style was essayed with delicate charm.

Pianist's Performance.
In the second number, the entire Beethoven Sonata for Violin and Piano (E flat, Opus 12, No. 3), the pianist, Emanuel Bay, completely walked away with the honors. His piano performance in this work, as well as in all the accompaniments, deserves unlimited praise.

After the intermission Heifetz played a group of his own transcriptions for violin, including "L'Après midi d'un Fougere," Debussy; "El Puerto," Albeniz; "All-Wien," Godowsky; and "Flora Staccato," by the Roumanian composer, Dinica. The latter won such favor that it was repeated.

PERMANENT AAA SEEN BY WALLACE

Prospects of Foreign Market Loss, Declining Domestic Demand Cited.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(P)—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace declared today that a partial loss of foreign markets and prospects for a declining domestic demand for farm products after 1950 made governmental crop control a "more or less" permanent necessity.

In his annual report to President Roosevelt, Wallace said the nation's agricultural industry had reached a productive capacity considerably in excess of present markets and possibly equal to any future needs.

"It is evident by this time," he asserted, "that we face a more or less permanent problem in agricultural adjustment, the sources of which lie deep in changed domestic and foreign conditions."

These conditions were described as attempts of European nations to become agriculturally self-sufficient, technological advances and a decline in this country's rate of population growth.

WALLACE ESTIMATES COTTON ALLOTMENT.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(P)—Secretary Wallace estimated the new year's cotton allotment today at 27,500,000 acres.

His annual report thus contained a flat rejection of the demand of some cotton belt congressmen that surplus removal be undertaken through drastic reduction of acreage permitted under the 1939 control program.

This acreage allotment was approximately the same as that planted to cotton during the 1938 season. Senator Bankhead (Democrat, Alabama), for one, had appealed to the agricultural industry to cut cotton planting to 23,000,000 or 24,000,000 acres. He argued no other method would be immediately effective in reducing the huge carryover.

DR. RUDISILL JR. JOINS STAFF AT PIEDMONT

Dr. Hilyer Rudisill Jr., professor of radiology and electrotherapy at the medical college of the State of South Carolina, at Charleston, will become director of the radiological department at Piedmont hospital, the Associated Press reported last night.

Dr. Rudisill will assume duties here February 1, said George W. Burt, superintendent of Piedmont hospital. Besides his work at the college, Dr. Rudisill is radiologist at Roper hospital, Charleston.

He is native of Macon, and was graduated from Jefferson Medical school, Philadelphia. He came to Charleston in 1931 from the University of Chicago, where he was an instructor. He is secretary of the South Carolina X-ray Society and chairman of the state medical association's cancer committee.

ACTION IS PROMISED ON WAGE VIOLATIONS

Several Already Reported to Local Office, Barber Discloses.

Although employers of this section are generally complying with the fair labor standards act, several violations of its provisions have been reported to his office, Albert D. Barber, official representative of the wage-hour division, said yesterday.

He added that since all employers have had time to acquaint themselves with the provisions of the act, the administration has begun investigations of reported violations in this area. All complaints, he said, are transmitted to Washington and treated confidentially.

Investigations and inspections have been under way throughout the country the last three weeks, Barber said, and action is to be expected soon in clear cases of violations of wage-hour act provisions.

Copies of the pamphlet, "A Calling for Hours, a Floor for Wages and a Break for Children," explaining the working of the act, may be had at his office, 322 E. Forsyth street building. Barber also has copies of regulations for the type of records employers must keep under the act.

GOOD MORNING -- By Louie D. Newton

"WHICH REMINDS ME . . ." Going up to Nashville on the train the other night for the meeting of the executive committee of the Southern Baptist Convention, the group from this part of the south gathered in the smoker for our usual evening of fellowship. Dr. J. M. Shelburne, of Danville, Va.; Dr. Harry Williams, of Charlotte, N. C.; Dr. W. L. Ball, of Greenville, S. C.; Dr. C. H. Bolton, of West Palm Beach, Fla., and Dr. J. C. Wilkinson, of Athens.

The train had not got to Marietta before we were well into the "problems present, past and future"—Hitler, Hirohito, Stalin, Mussolini—totalitarianism, behaviorism, Communism, Socialism, and what have you. We went down to South America with Cordell Hull, over to the United States with Anthony Eden, across to Munich with Neville Chamberlain, far away to Madras to the World Missionary conference, and so forth and so on.

And then, somewhere along about Chattanooga, I imagine, we got down to the recent books, Link's "The Rediscovery of Man," Herbert Agar's "Pursuit of Happiness," Neuberger's "Our Promised Land," William Butler Yeats' "Autobiography," Van Doren's "Benjamin Franklin," Preston's "The Liberals," James Truslow Adams' "Building the British Empire," Ann Morrow Lindbergh's "Listen! The Wind," Marjorie Rawlings' "The Yearling," and so forth and so on.

And further up the road and into the morning we left the field of "problems" and books and so forth and so on, and talked of the things that really abide the experiences of the years that grow dearer day by day. In that realm one often hears the remark, "which reminds me . . ." and then follows some intimate bit of treasured experience.

How infinitely richer we are after an evening of fellowship like that, who can tell? With Coleridge I would say, "Flowers are lovely; love is flower-like; Friendship is a sheltering tree; Oh the joys that came down shower-like, Of friendship, love and liberty."

U. S. Public Opinion in 3 Words: "LIGHT" IS RIGHT

"They want whiskey LIGHT these days," says Thomas F. King

"And that's why we serve such a lot of Schenley's Red Label and Black Label," adds this head barman of a famous hotel in Boston.

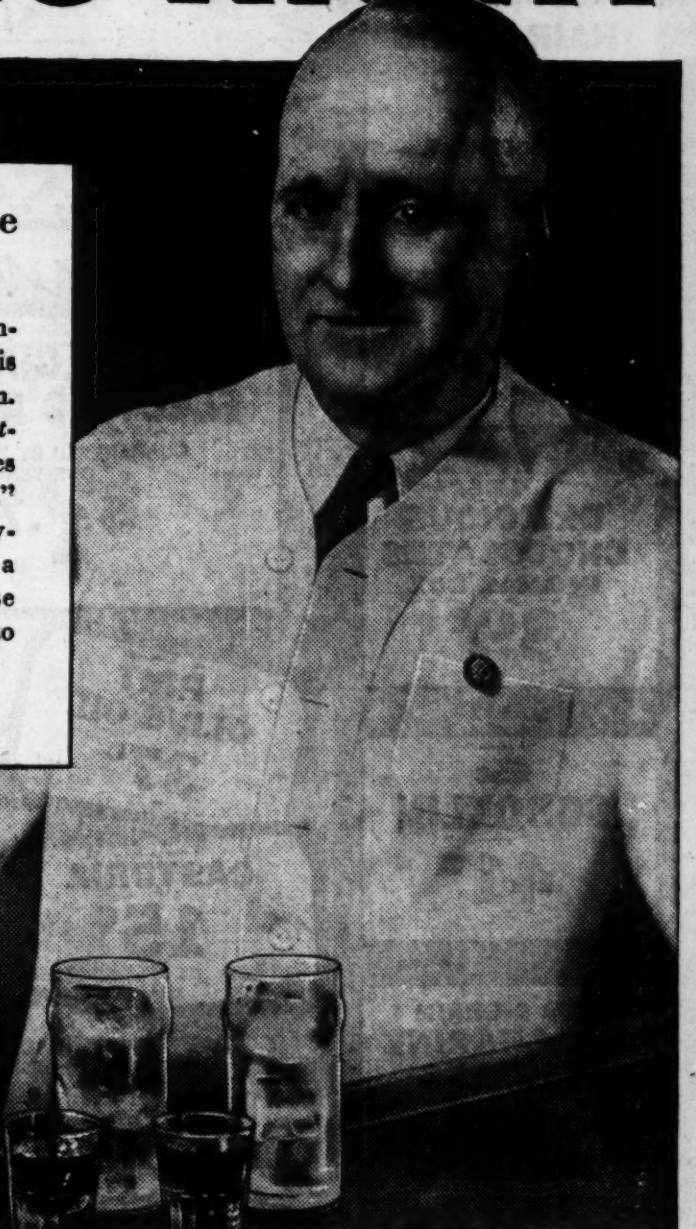

Yes, Mr. King . . . they have the right lightness, full 90 proof, and the smoothness that comes from Schenley's exclusive "melding method."

Schenley's Red Label is a delicate, easy-going whiskey. Schenley's Black Label has a more pronounced flavor. Count on these Friendly* Schenley blends. They'll prove to you that "LIGHT" IS RIGHT.

LIMA PARLEY SCANS U. S. OFFER OF UNITY

Proposed Pact Against Outside Aggression Is Abandoned.

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 15.—(AP)—The United States abandoned hope of reaching an inter-American pact against outside aggression today and put before the Pan-American conference a project to unify all existing peace agreements among the 21 American republics.

The proposal would create a kind of Pan-American peace constitution and embrace in 23 exhaustive articles of over 12-page document all the accords, resolutions and declarations of previous Pan-American conferences on peace, conciliation and arbitration.

The abandonment of hope of reaching an accord for continental defense was due to Argentina's insistence that she did not want a pact, but would agree to a resolution or statement of American unity.

Behind the scenes discussions indicated that Argentina not yet was convinced the United States' good-neighbor policy would be permanent.

Argentina, according to Argentinians, wants a resolution worded to provide for defense against aggression from any direction.

That wording ostensibly would protect Latin America from possible aggression from the United States as well as from other continents.

The Argentinians indicated they feared a change of administrations in Washington might alter the present good-neighbor policy.

United States delegates, however, continued to insist the wording should refer to outside aggression.

They held that Latin America, if it desires protection, was safeguarded sufficiently through agreements reached at previous Pan-American conferences for maintaining peace and abandoning intervention in the western hemisphere.

Cattle Rustling Laid To Trio in DeKalb

Page Hopalong Cassidy and the Texas Rangers Cattle rustlers are on the loose in Georgia.

A few of them were, anyway, it was disclosed yesterday when the DeKalb county grand jury returned indictments against three negroes, brothers, charged with a series of cattle thefts.

The prisoners admitted, according to police, theft of more than 100 head of cattle during the year. The negroes were listed as Gus, O'Neal and Henry Clements.

Evans Declares Klan Will Plan Fight on 'Reds'

By The Associated Press.
Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans said yesterday the Ku Klux Klan would meet next May to streamline the organization and intensify the fight "against Communism and its stooges, the CIO."

The returned leader of the secret order said "startling changes" in its makeup were planned "to organize it on a regional basis—a basis of group interests and aims rather than mere geographic lines."

"We are going to pattern our organization after what the American government may be expected to be like in 50 years," said he. He did not disclose the exact location of the national meeting.

Evans said the situation of labor was better here than in any country in the world. He said the Klan was progressing gratifyingly with the membership campaign he announced in July, 1937.

Crackers Give Rose Outright Release; Sign Alf Anderson

Eddie (Pigeon) Rose walked out of a conference with Earl Mann and Paul Richards yesterday and said, "I enjoyed playing for you."

Rose had just been released outright. And there is just a bare chance that the passing scene in the Southern league has eliminated Eddie Rose as a player—after a decade of service.

The veteran left-fielder, who played 10 years with New Orleans, Little Rock and Atlanta, has hopes of landing with the Shreveport club, of the Texas league.

Rose has a brother in business at Shreveport and has a chance to go in with him. But he would like to play a year or two longer before hanging up his glove and spikes for good.

Eddie Rose came to the Crackers from New Orleans two seasons ago in exchange for Joe Hutcherson. He immediately became an inspiration for the youngsters. It was nothing for Eddie to tear down a fence going after a hard hit ball.

And so, regardless of the passing scene, you sort of hate to see a fellow like Rose go. It is the best thing for him that he get a chance to make a deal for himself, but still there is a bit of sadness at parting.

"Baseball, behind the scenes, is not the hard-boiled business that it is pictured. And yet it is a business and must be conducted as such to be successful.

Still you cannot help but stop and think of the thoughts that are running through a fellow's mind as he gets his release. I am not talking about the ordinary fellow that draws the pink slip, but about Eddie Rose and a long career in which he several times led the league in runs batted in.

He must be thinking, "Is this the end?" And to a fellow who put as much heart into the game as has Eddie Rose that is a disquieting thought. It's not easy for a fellow like Rose to dismiss it all with a grin, although he was grinning yesterday when he said, "I enjoyed playing for you."

It's not easy to grip a fellow's hand at a time like that and say, "well, so long, and good luck." Deep down you feel a bit of resentment at time and the passing scene. But that's baseball. It has its sober sides as well as its bright ones.

Anyway, so long, and good luck, Eddie.

THERE ARE TWO SIDES.

There are two sides to this outright release business, as in the case of Rose.

It's not easy, sometimes, to be president and manager of a ball club, for instance.

Baseball, as mentioned, may be a hard-boiled business, but think of the mingled feelings of, say, President Earl Mann, as he calls a player in for the final conference.

And think of the feelings of, say, Manager Paul Richards as he arrived at a decision that plainly must be made.

Some baseball officials are hardened to this sort of thing. It means nothing to them. A baseball player is just so much chattel. When time comes for him to go, releasing him is just another item in the day's business.

And so this may be one of the underlying reasons why the Atlanta baseball corporation is such an outstanding organization. It has a heart.

It was possible, no doubt, to make some sort of deal for Rose. He was the property of the Atlanta baseball club. Maybe

TECH WILL HAVE FULL STRENGTH IN BEAR BATTLE

West Coast Eleven Has Lost Only One Game, to Trojans.

By JACK TROY.

A year late and grateful for a west coast committee that saw fit to nominate Southern California instead of California for the Rose Bowl game, thirty-four Georgia Tech football players and members of their party will depart at 6 o'clock tonight for San Francisco.

Tech would have headed coastward last year except for the fact that California was the classic football team in the conference and got the bid to defend the coast's prestige, if any, against Alabama.

The Yellow Jacket party is off tonight on a virtually non-stop jaunt to San Francisco, which will be headquarters until the day of the game at Berkeley, across the bay.

Tech coaches, with Coach W. A. Alexander as spokesman, are inclined to believe that they're meeting, in California, one of the best teams on the coast this year. The Golden Bears lost only one game, being beaten by Southern Cal by a one-touchdown margin.

BOTTARI ALL-AMERICA. Vic Bottari, who threw a touchdown pass as a sophomore in the Christmas day game here two years ago, is now an All-American and boasts a strong supporting cast.

Nevertheless, Tech is prepared to make a good showing. The Jackets are likely to have their strongest team of the entire year ready for the Bears. They have less injuries at this time than at any other period during the year.

The only absentee as the train pulls out will be Line Coach Mack Tharpe. He will brave the Rockies on a quick plane trip which is calculated to land him in San Francisco on Wednesday, or just a day after the Tech party arrives.

The thirty-four Tech players making the trip include:

CENTERS—Jack Chivington, Roane Beard, D. L. Nowell.

GUARDS—Junior Anderson, J. L. Brooks, Mack Furlow, Jim Hart and Allen Wilcox.

ENDS—Paul Sprayberry, Tom Allen, Bob Ison, George Smith, Gay Thrash and Bob Anderson.

BACKS—Hawk Cavette, Howard Ector, Buck Shaw, Roy Gore, Buck Murphy, June Page, Lewis Crockett, Earl Wheby, Joe Bartlett, Bobby Beers, Tommy Brooks, Billy Gibson, G. C. Wilkins and Bud Gilmer.

Members of the Tech party will include Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Tech; Dr. D. M. Smith, Professor F. W. Ajax and Professor A. H. Armstrong, faculty chairman of athletics; W. A. Alexander, athletic director and head coach; Bobby Dodd, George Griffin, Roy Mundorff, Trainer Claude Band and Burton and Porto, veteran colored helpers; Senior Managers Dean Sprattlin and H. D. Hutchison; Dr. Lamont Henry, team physician; Dr. Murdoch Eguen, of the Tech hospital board, his wife and family; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Culpepper; Mr. and Mrs. Rawson Ison, parents of Bob Ison; Tech end; Mrs. W. A. Alexander, wife of the coach, and two daughters, Marie and Rebecca; Miss Marjorie Armstrong, daughter of Professor Armstrong; Mrs. Bobby Dodd and Mrs. Ed Danforth.

ATLANTA WRITERS. Three Atlanta sports writers—Ed Danforth, Morgan Blake and Jack Troy—will make the trip and remain over after Tech's game to cover Duke and Southern California in the Rose Bowl.

Tech and California meet on even terms as regards the series. Each has won two and lost two. The Jackets will practice every morning leading up to the game with the Bears the day after Christmas. There will be no stops for practice on the way out, however.

Southern Offices Transferred Here

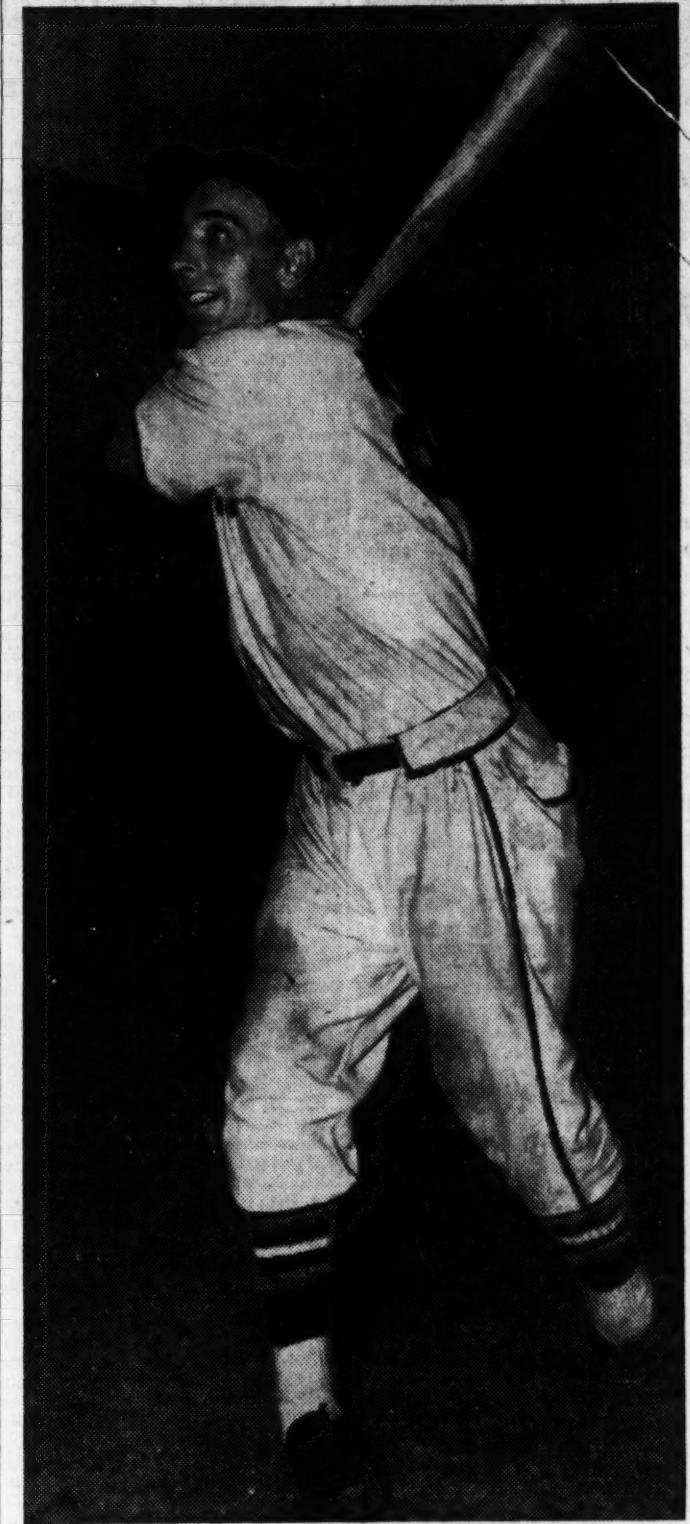

Southern league secretary Jimmy Sanders arrived in Atlanta yesterday, completing the transfer of league offices from Memphis to Atlanta. Sanders has been league secretary for eight years, with offices in Memphis where league headquarters were maintained during the regime of former president Judge John D. Martin. Major Trammel Scott was re-elected southern league president, and also elected secretary for a three year term at the southern league meeting at New Orleans last week. Scott's salary, as voted by the league, contained the stipend allowance for a secretary, and Scott retained Sanders in office.

MERGER OKAYED.

EDDIE IS CRACKER NO LONGER

Eddie Rose, veteran outfielder, was given his outright release by the Atlanta Crackers yesterday. He has been in the Southern League for 10 years and was known as an excellent hitter with men on base. His release comes as the Crackers make room for their young outfielders, Fritz Oetting and Johnny Rucker.

Warren Five Upsets Goodyear, 32 to 30

Virlyn Moore, Lindy Hood Foul Out in Thriller Here; Reserves Win, 62-31.

By THAD HOLT.

Warren's basketball team, beginning to look more and more like it might rebound from an early season slump to hit the heights ere the campaign is done, came up with what was easily its top performance last night in turning back a rangy and powerful Goodyear five from Gadsden, Ala., 32-30, at Warren arena.

The crowd was on its feet at the bell, yelling wildly as the Warrens frantically guarded a slender lead, and the visitors, closing fast, threatened to pull one out of the fire. A number of Georgia Tech students were in the stands, giving vocal support to Bill Jordan, last year Jacket forward and now a star of the Goodyear team, which is sparked and coached by Lindy Hood, former Alabama center.

Jordan, guarded doggedly by Gene Warlick, of the Warren team, was able to make only one basket in each half, those from difficult angles, but he played a dazzling passing and floor game.

A BALL GAME! It was a ball game—right up to, and past, the smashing finish.

HELP OF STATE IS SOUGHT HERE BY SPORTSMEN

Executive Committee Hears Pleas of Wildlife Group.

Georgia's sportsmen, representing more than 65,000 licensed hunters and thousands of others interested in the development of a greater game and fish program in the state, had their say through official representation Thursday in an all-day session before a special committee to study and draft suitable bills to be presented to the state legislature at its next session.

The open meeting was begun at the Henry Grady hotel and completed at the state capitol, where an executive committee, after hearing from all parties concerned, will begin at once work on the legislative bills.

It was the general voice of every representative that political influences have tended to stigmatize Georgia's wildlife program rather than aid the development and each speaker pleaded for more co-operation and a set-up similar to that in other states where progress is being made.

Governor Rivers some time ago appointed a committee of Cason Callaway, chairman, Trammell Scott, Herbert Stoddard, Dr. W. B. Baker and John Pearson to listen to sportsmen from all sections of the state and to draft any bills suitable to stimulate the progress of Georgia's wildlife. And it was before that committee Thursday that the sportsmen had their say.

W. J. Howard and S. P. Ulmer, of the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey, were the principal speakers at the afternoon meeting, and talked at length on the relation of federal aid and co-operation with state organizations. They pointed out certain rules under which state organizations must work in order to receive federal aid.

Joe Kircher of the Regional U. S. Forest Service also was one of the afternoon speakers, as was E. D. Smith, representing the Atlanta Sportsmen's Club and also the Georgia Wildlife Federation. Members of the committee late Thursday began active steps toward drafting certain bills to be presented to the state legislature and were armed with suggestions from sportsmen from all sections of the state.

EDDIE HAS BEEN WITH 3 TEAMS IN THIS LEAGUE

Mann Considers Frank Anderson's Son 'a Fine Prospect.'

The Atlanta Baseball Corporation yesterday announced the outright release of Eddie Rose, veteran outfielder and a 10-year man in the Southern league. Eddie played with New Orleans and Little Rock, besides Atlanta. Rose said his future plans were indefinite. He has a chance to go into business with his brother at Shreveport, La.

President Earl Mann also announced purchase of Alf Anderson, second baseman, from New Bern (N. C.) of the Coastal Plains league. Anderson, a former University of Georgia baseball star, is the son of Frank Anderson, Oglethorpe University baseball coach.

President Mann said Anderson "looks like a fine prospect." He will report to the spring training camp at Savannah for a thorough tryout.

Rubeling Delayed By Family Death

President Mann also received a letter from Al Rubeling, who is wintering in Baltimore, revealing that Rubeling's plans to come here at this time for a thorough physical examination have been upset by a death in the family. Rubeling wrote that "I want to get down there before Christmas, if possible. I'll let you know in a later letter when to expect me."

Both Rubeling and the Atlanta club are anxious to get a report on the rookie second baseman's physical condition. He was out of baseball most of last year due to a severe case of yellow jaundice.

If the club doctor okays Rubeling's condition one of the infield worries of the Atlanta club may be settled. Manager Paul Richards considers him a bright prospect. Rube was an outstanding performer in spring training last season at Savannah.

Red Sox Trade Higgins, McKain for Auker, Wade, Morgan

VOLS TO CARRY 41 MEN ON TRIP

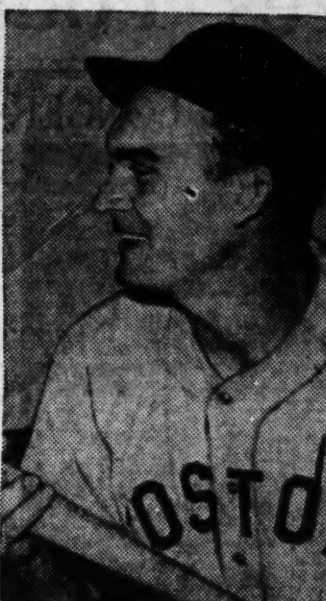

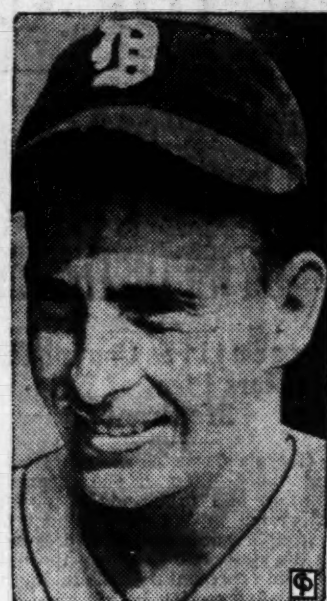

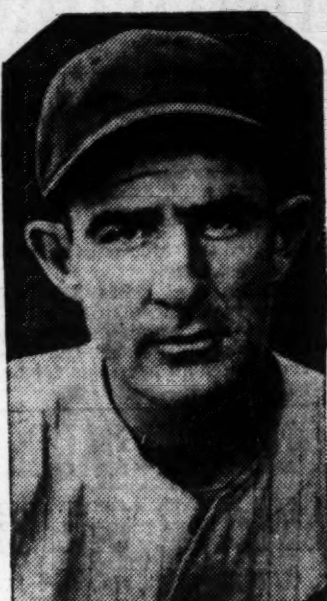

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 15.—(P)—Coach Bob Neyland announced today he would take a squad of 41 players to Miami for the Tennessee-Oklahoma Orange Bowl game January 2.

He said the group would leave here either December 26 or 27 and go directly to the scene of the battle.

"We will reassemble our squad next Monday and begin daily drills for the game," he added. "Most of the boys have just completed term examinations and have gone home for short visits."

Neyland said the approximately 3,000 tickets sent here by the Orange Bowl sponsors had been sold, indicating a large group of supporters will follow the Volunteers to the Florida city.

Lou Seeks To Prove He's Messiah of Maul

Young Nova Faces Tommy Farr Tonight in His Most Important Bout.

By JACK CUDDY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Young Lou Nova, the "Alameda Adonis," will try to prove tomorrow night that he is the messiah of maul, the man of destiny, the great white hope, when he tangles with Tommy Farr, tough Welsh heavyweight, at Madison Square Garden.

Nova faces such a difficult assignment when he crawls through the ropes for 15 rounds with the scar-faced Welsh coal miner that betting men have made him the 7-5 underdog.

Farr is 24 years old, just a year older than Nova. But Farr has been fighting for money since he was 13 years old—in the boxing booths of the British Isles and in the professional rings. Although the record books show that Tommy participated in only 74 encounters after actually turning professional seven years ago, his former manager, Ted Broadbent, claims that Farr has fought at least 150 times. That's why the smart money along Slapstrasse is being plunked on his experience.

BURNED OUT.

However, the Nova backers emphasize that Farr may have burned himself out, like most British fighters, by starting too young and answering the gong too often. They say also that though tough Tommy went the distance against Louis, Braddock and Baer, he went a much greater distance—backwards—on Broadway's route since his last bout with Baer in March. Meanwhile Lou has been training and campaigning busily. The former California Aggie student fought eight times since January and registered a technical knockout over Gunnar Barlund, of Finland, in his last bout. And he should have winning momentum because he lost but one bout in his 26. Slapsie Maxie Rosenblum won a questionable decision over Lou.

Moreover, half of Nova's victories have been by the kayo route, while Farr is known to be a powder-puff puncher. Nova who patterns his style after Tunney and Corbett, has a fine left jab which may prove Farr's undoing. He has more boxing skill than Farr, but he has an unfortunate temper which makes him forget his science when he makes him start slugging.

GREATEST FEAR.

Nova's friends' greatest fear is that he will get angry and start shooting the works against tough Tommy in the early rounds—and wear himself out against the "mule man." Nobody ever knocked out Farr, and he fought the hardest puncher Nova never was kayoed either, but he hasn't faced the explosive artillery offered by Louis or Baer.

At the weighing-in, tomorrow noon, Farr will register about 204 pounds and Nova about 201. Hence weight will have no bearing on the outcome. If Nova wins, he is expected to be matched with Baer as his last obstacle in a quick march to a title fight with Louis.

If Farr wins, he too will try to fight back to a Louis brawl, but Baer will not meet Farr again.

Promoter Mike Jacobs expects a crowd of about 9,000 and a gate of $35,000.

Miller, Nolan Grapple In Main Event Tonight

Paddy Nolan, self-styled Irish killer, and Sammy Miller, who often introduces himself to an opponent with a right on the chin or a kick in the groin, will meet in an "anything goes" match tonight as the feature of the weekly light-heavyweight wrestling card at Warren Arena.

The bout between the villains is a match the fans made. Promoters merely complied with requests in bringing together the tough guys. Both Nolan and Miller have long been on ram pages here and fans hit upon the idea of letting them inflict their fouling tactics upon one another.

Glenn Cowan, the wrestling cop, who has shown himself as adept at ring maneuvers as handling out tickets to law breakers, will go into action against Bob Anderson in the semi-final. Both boys are capable performers.

John Dameron and Bad Boy Brown are paired off in the opening event, a one-fall affair, at 8:30. Regular low prices will be in effect. Tiny Ruff will referee.

MAJORS RAISE PLAYER LIMIT FROM 23 TO 25

Landis Casts Deciding Vote; Waiver Rule Changed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(P)—The Boston Red Sox today sent Third Baseman Frank (Pinky) Higgins and Archie McKain, left-handed pitcher, to the Detroit Tigers for Pitchers Eldon Auker and Jake Wade and Outfielder Chet Morgan.

Higgins, one of the junior circuit's better third basemen, broke Tris Speaker's major league record last season when he got 12 successive hits in three games. Speaker's record had been 11. Twenty-nine years old, Higgins batted .303 this past year. He went to Boston from the Philadelphia Athletics in 1937. Since he broke into the majors with the A's in 1933, he has dropped below .300 only twice, with a .330 percentage in 1934 his best mark.

McKain was used chiefly as a relief pitcher. He appeared in 37 games this season, winning five and losing four.

Auker, right-handed "submarine ball" specialist who is 28 years old, has been a mainstay of the Tiger staff since he came up in 1933. He led the league in 1935, with 18 victories and seven defeats, and had his poorest record this season—11 won and 10 lost. Wade, an erratic southpaw, is 25 and has just finished his third season with Detroit, winning three and losing two.

LEFT-HANDED.

Morgan, a reserve outfielder, batted .284 in 74 games for the Tigers. He is a left-handed hitter.

Today's deal was the Red Sox second step to strengthen a pitching staff weakened by the likely loss of Lefty Grove. Last night they acquired Dennis Galehouse from the Cleveland Indians.

The Red Sox also sold Pitcher Bill (Hard Luck) Harris, a right-hander who once performed for the Pittsburgh Pirates, to Jersey City of the International league in a straight cash transaction.

The Jersey City club sold Pitcher Tom Delacruz to Trenton (N. J.) of the Eastern league.

With Commissioner K. M. Landis casting the deciding vote the major league clubs agreed to raise the player limit for each club from 23 to 25 as they completed their three-day confab with a joint session.

The National league previously had favored the plan but the American wanted a limit of 23 with a disability list of two. Both circuits stood pat with the result the commissioner was called on to break the deadlock.

GOES IN EFFECT.

The new rule will go into effect 31 playing days after the opening of the season and continue until September 1 when each club is permitted to carry players.

The waiver rule was changed so that a team claiming a waived player will not be required to name the player released to make room for the newcomer until after it has been notified of the award.

A proposal to pay the players over eight months so as to include the spring training season was withdrawn, as was a proposal to bring both leagues under one radio agreement. The two circuits, however, are expected to get together later on a broadcasting plan.

'Sandy' Sanford Has Appendix Removed

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 15.—(P)—Hayward (Sandy) Sanford, Alabama's goal-kicking end who booted the 1937 Crimson Tide into the Rose Bowl, underwent an operation for appendicitis here today. His attending physician reported he was "resting comfortably" after the operation.

Sanford, acclaimed nationally for his pinch-kicking against Tulane and Vanderbilt during the 1937 season, did not participate in 1938 games. When he broke a bone in his left leg before the opening game, coaches decided to hold him out a year. He will be a senior in 1939.

Horned Frogs Start Practice for Tartans

FORT WORTH, Texas, Dec. 15.—(P)—The Texas Christian University Horned Frogs slipped back into training routine today in preparation for their Sugar Bowl battle with Carnegie Tech at New Orleans on January 2 and whipped through what looked like a mid-season drill.

After 19 days away from the field, the top-ranking Frogs responded eagerly to Coach Dutch Meyer's call for blocking, punting and passing practice and signal drills by four teams.

Old plays and formations were performed without a hitch, but Coach Meyer indicated plenty of scrimmage would be given next week to pare off excess weight some players gained during the layoff.

Yankees Will Open With Senators Apr. 17

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—(P)—The New York Yankees, who fared all right on all other kinds, will get a look at presidential pitching next spring.

The world champions drew the assignment to open the American league season at Washington next April 17.

Pittsburgh will play at Cincinnati the same day to inaugurate the National league campaign, with all other clubs in both leagues swinging into action on the 18th.

Clark Griffith, of Washington, were voted down. They were the suggestions to do away with all Sunday doubleheaders, eliminate bonuses for signing contracts and the proposal of only one farm team for each club in minor league classifications above Class B.

As usual, $20,000 was voted to aid the American Legion junior baseball program. Both leagues favored accepting the invitation of Cincinnati to hold their annual sessions there next year. The minor leagues are expected to go to the same city at the same time.

The rules committee of the major leagues drew up two changes for the rule book covering moves approved yesterday. These concern the rule prohibiting an outfielder from intentionally dropping a fly ball or line drive to set up a double play, and the new concession to pitchers, permitting them to stand with one foot behind the rubber, instead of having both feet in contact with it.

DUKE TEAM HAS SHORT WORKOUT

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 15.—(P)—Duke's high speed football preparations for the Rose Bowl game against Southern California at Pasadena January 2 slowed today to a short, light workout.

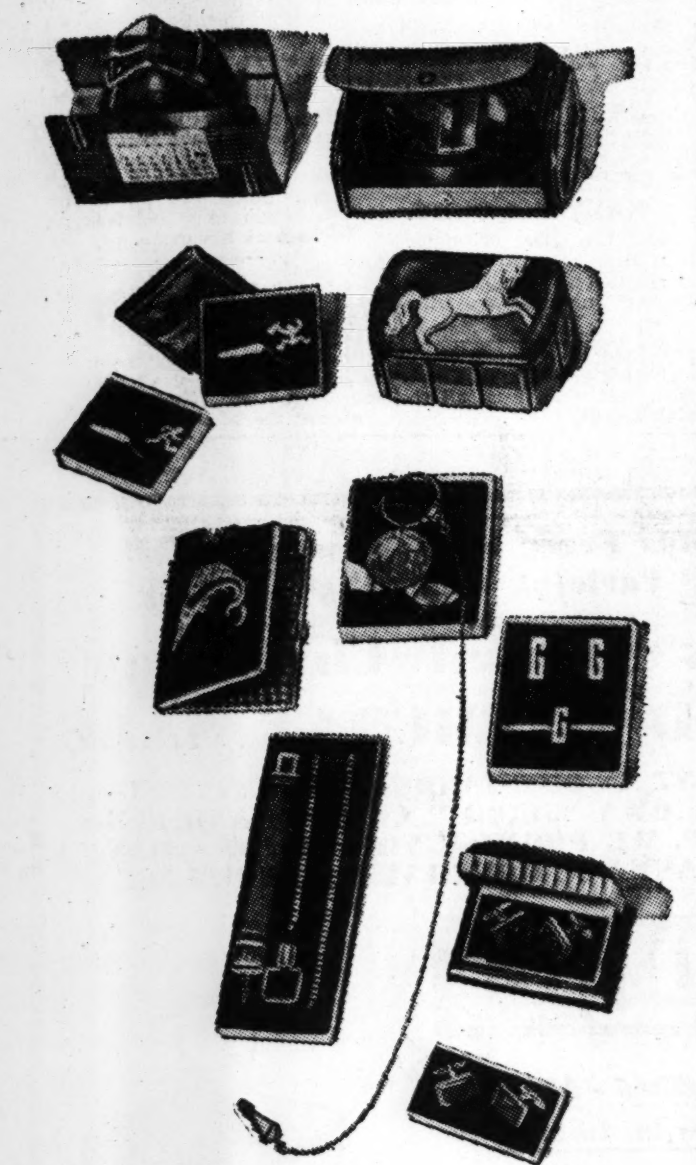

Group drills took up most of the brief period. Backs worked on defense against Trojan aerial and running plays, linemen practiced rushing, and ends sought to stop end sweeps.

Wesley McAfee, substitute half-back, and Willard Purdie, end, nursed minor injuries.

The Blue Devils have but four workouts remaining before they entrain Tuesday afternoon. Workouts are planned at Pine Bluff, Ark., and Lubbock, Texas.

Has Hunt Grown Grim For Gifts to HIM?

Upper left—When you remove this good-looking belt with the tongue buckle, a handy perpetual calendar, suitable for his desk or bureau, remains.

Upper right—The belt and initialed buckle are contained in a leather-topped, sturdily built box, that can serve a wide variety of useful purposes when the original contents are removed.

Next left—These little sports figures are included in a whole range, showing a skier, soccer player, cheerleader, etc., in silhouette. These are tie holders. The clip goes on the shirt behind the tie, only the ornament showing. The metal box in which they come serves as an ashtray.

Just below—The pocket piece at the upper end of this key chain simulates an ancient French coin. The feature is that it contains a handy knife and nail file as shown in the picture. The chain's key ring has the special feature of opening with a stem-winder device similar to a watch's. This permits taking off a single key at a time, instead of having to remove a whole group to get at one.

Bottom left—Leather watch fobs are smart this season. This one carries his initials. The square key "ring" at the other end is another smart touch.

Lower right—The top set is initial cufflinks and tie clip, and the two below are good-looking cameo cufflinks, one set in relief and one in intaglio.

By ROBERT FAIRCHILD
EDITOR MEN'S FASHIONS.

The Christmas hour nears and nears; the ugly head of deadline rears. In spite of two weeks' gift suggestion your gift to him is still in question. You're looking for the gift ideal; the things I've shown are not, you feel. Well, here's my third and final try; I sink or swim, I do or die.

Packaging art received a lift when someone schemed the two-way gift. The boxes do a double chore; for instance, see the upper four. It makes him that much extra happy when the gift box serves as a tag. See captions for the full descriptions; to time it all would cause conniptions.

A final word, a last suggestion, to settle once for all this question: if you can't find the gift specific, if you don't give a gift certificate?
